BARTLETT-WHITNEY BATTLE IS CLOSED

Parker and Mayberry, Counsel for Democratic Claimants, Completed Arguments in Case and Ballot Commission Took It Under Advisement To-day.

The decision as to whether Charles W. Bartlett or Henry M. Whitney was nominated for Governor at the Springfield Democratic Convention is now in the hands of the State Ballot Law Commission. The commission must decide at once.

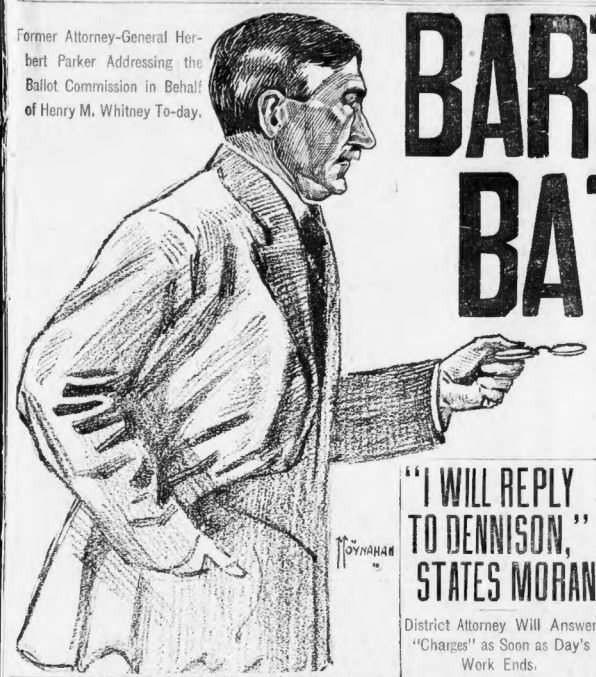
Herbert Parker, former Attorney-General, chief counsel for the Whitney side, closed his argument a few minutes after noon. The commission immediately went into executive session to consider the evidence.

Counsel George L Mayberry, for the Bartlett forces, spoke an hour and ten minutes presenting his side of the case. He contended that the Whitney delegates had a pre-concerted plan to bolt the convention; that they went to the theatre with that idea in mind.

MAYBERRY DEFENDS KILEY.

"No effort was made to find out if chairman Kiley intended to be fair," said Mr. Mayberry. "No motion was made to take a recess that the delegates outside might have a chance to get into the hall.

"If disgrace has fallen upon the Democratic party because of what happened in that convention, it is important that the blame be placed on the shoulders of those responsible."



Former Attorney-General Herbert Parker Addressing the Ballot Commission in Behalf of Henry M. Whitney To-day.

MAYBERRY ARGUES FOR BARTLETT SIDE

George L. Mayberry, chief counsel for the Bartlett side, began his argument before the Ballot Law Commission at 9:40, talking an hour and ten minutes, after which there was a recess of five minutes. These points were made by Mr. Mayberry:

"Every act on the part of the Democratic State Committee previous to the convention was the act of a majority as the result of a vote. It is inevitable, fair and just that they should have taken steps. It was a trial of strength fairly put. My friend, Mr. Parker, says there was a conspiracy on the part of the State Committee to nominate Mr. Kiley for chairman of the convention and that Mr. Kiley would deny the legates their rights. It is fareist to ask this commission to set aside this convention because the State Committee was divided.

"It was open to Mr. McNary, instead of turning on his heels and going to the back of the theatre and calling the Whitney delegates to follow him, to address Mr. Kiley to make motion if he saw fit. He might have made a motion for a recess until all the delegates were in the theatre.

Had Parliamentary Rights.

"Did he do so? No. Why not? He might have said: 'I move that we suspend until the floor is cleared of all who have not blue tickets.' Did he do it? No. Why not? Because, gentlemen, he was in the same attitude of mind which caused him and the other Whitney leaders to oppose so bitterly the nomination of Mr. Kiley. McNary didn't desire to know if Kiley was fair or not. Neither did the other Whitney leaders. He didn't desire to take advantage of the parliamentary rights he had to decide whether Kiley was fair.

Mr. Mayberry described the Whitney convention as a "pre-concerted pump convention," and said those that took part in it were responsible for all the noise that was made in the theatre. There was no disturbance, he said, until McNary, Quiney and others started their "pump" convention in the rear. With a pat on the shoulder the Whitney leaders could have stopped the men who were making all the noise; the Bartlett attorney said.

"Do you suppose that Councilman Doherty and the two Curleys came there with megaphones without some preconcerted action?" he asked. "They came there to make a disturbance, and they intended to make a disturbance before they came to the theatre."

Praise for Kiley.

"If the Bartlett people had prize fight ers there, how long do you suppose Doherty and Curley would have kept up that noise?"

Mr. Mayberry lauded Kiley and said that he made every endeavor to stop the disturbance by calling on the police. He prophesied that in future conventions the same system of two tickets that was used at Springfield would be continued.

He said the only way to prevent "packing" a convention was by the system of two tickets, one for admission and one entitling the holder to vote.

"There was no unfairness about the distribution of tickets at the box office," Mr. Mayberry said. "The box office was open at 9:30 and the only reason why the Whitney delegates didn't get into the theatre at 9:31 o'clock was because they didn't apply as early as they should have. They themselves were to blame for not being there early."

"Place Blame Where It Belongs."

At least twelve men, the attorney said, signed affidavits that they attended the Whitney convention and then also signed affidavits that they had been excluded from the convention.

"You are asked to endorse that sort of affidavit," he said, "you are asked to endorse perjury. It is important that the blame should fall where it belongs. If disgrace has fallen on the Democratic party, it is important that you place it on the shoulders of the right men, the men who are responsible for it."

E. GERRY BROWN ARGUES NEITHER CONVENTION LEGAL

Immediately after Chairman Cunningham called the commission to order to-day he announced that E. Gerry Brown, candidate for Lieutenant Governor on the Independence League ticket, had been granted twenty minutes in which to argue that neither the Whitney nor the Bartlett convention was legal.

Mr. Brown said that a convention was founded on the fundamental rule that it was a deliberative body. There was not one scintilla of evidence, he said, to show that that there was order at any time during the convention. Delegates had admitted in their testimony, he said, that the convention was out of order during the entire time. When Chairman Kiley was asked, "Did you preserve order?" he said that he sent the marshal to elect a delegate, and when the marshal approached the man he shook his credentials in the policeman's face. Every proceeding has been rights as a delegate, although he was disorderly.

College, came an official denial of the report.

The police say a careful investigation has been made of the story, but not a scrap of evidence can be found to substantiate it. Every precaution has been taken, however, to protect the Secretary, insular as well as United States Secret Service guard him constantly.

Taft at an entertainment at Fort William McKinley to-day refuses to discuss the bomb story. He reviewed the Manila garrison in the afternoon and will attend a reception at the American Club to-night.

District Attorney John B. Moran, seen at his office to-day by a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter and asked about the Dennison charges, said:

"I am attending during the daytime strictly to the duties of the District Attorney's office. I will reply and at once to Dennison.

"Just as soon as my day's duties here are over I will have something to say on Mr. Dennison and his 'charges.' The people will hear from me to-morrow morning."

KELLOGG'S LASH FOR NEPHEW OF JOHN D.

WILLIAM G. ROCKEFELLER NERVOUS ON THE STAND IN OIL INVESTIGATION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—William G. Rockefeller, nephew of John D., and the last of the Rockefeller clan at No. 26 Broadway, took the witness stand today in the witness suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. He was very nervous and retained his composure with difficulty when he faced Deputy Attorney Kellogg. He is treasurer of the Standard of New York and assistant treasurer of the Standard of New Jersey.

Kellogg at once asked him if he knew anything about loans to James McDonald, amounting to an average of about $2,500,000, extending over the years from 1895 to 1906 by the Standard of New York.

"I only know the Anglo-America Company of London ordered us to pay the money," said Rockefeller. "We simply acted as bankers."

Kellogg was trying to get at the Manhattan Oil Company sale in 1900, which he is anxious to trace to the Standard.

"Do you know anything about the Manhattan Oil Company?" asked Kellogg.

"Only what I have read in the papers," said the witness with a smile. Then Kellogg asked if he knew anything about the General Industrial Development Company, Ltd., of London, which purchased the Manhattan, and he again replied:

"Only what the newspapers have published in this case."

Kellogg asked if he knew anything about the $20,000,000 appearing on the books of the Southern Pipe Line Company as having been paid to P. S. Trainor, the Standard purchasing agent.

Rockefeller said he never had heard of the sum, though all Trainor's business as conducted by the Standard Oil of New York. He said he would look them up.

HEINZE MILLIONS IN BULL COPPER BATTLE

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Declaring that he will spend the last cent of his enormous fortune, if necessary, in the fight to put United Copper back at its old position, F. Augustus Heinze to-day hotly hurled defiance at his brothers' enemies.

"These reports about my financial difficulties are absurd," he declared in a statement. "I have as much money to-day as I ever had at one time in all my life. Let those who think I am not still in control continue to think so. They will hear from me in a manner that will convince them that my activity has not even lulled.

Heinze's declaration is regarded as presaging a struggle of gigantic proportions. He is known as a fighter and Wall street is anxiously awaiting the beginning of the battle.

An interval must ensue, however, while experts are ecalating the books of Heinze & Co. to determine its exact standing. Then the decision to hull United Copper will begin in earnest.

Financers in Conference.

Announcement by the clearing house committee which examined Mercantile National Bank from which F. Augustus yesterday retired, that it was solvent, and the positive declaration that the firm of Otto Heinze & Company, to which F. Augustus Heinze has determined to give his entire attention will be able to weather the storm, had a strong effect on the market.

It became known too that Heinze, Charles W. Morse and E. R. Thomas had a conference lasting nearly all night when it is said arrangements were made to protect a financial institution said to have been involved in the copper crash. The situation generally has been somewhat cleared by the election of the Amalgamated Copper Company in announcing a dividend of one per cent.

Directors of the Mercantile Bank are eagerly awaiting the answer of Comptroller of Treasury Ridley to their offer of banks's presidency. It is said they are ready to agree to Ridley's reported stipulation that he must have full control.

It was said to-day that from the time Frederick Schenck left the Mercantile National Bank its deposits began to shrink and during the incumbency of Mr. Heinze they had decreased from $16,000,000 to $11,000,000.

Boston Hit by Crash.

As the smoke of the copper battle clears away information is leaking out which shows that the efforts of the fight against Heinze was felt in many places outside of New York.

Boston felt it, but the losses in that city are not heavy.

The firm of Otto Heinze & Co., which suspended payment, owes six Boston firms $200,000.

None of these firms is crippled because of the failure of the Heinze firms to meet its payments.

Max H. Schultze, the Boston Stock Exchange member of the firm of Otto Heinze & Company, has been suspended by the Boston Stock Exchange. He was admitted to the Boston Stock Exchange on March 5, 1906.

The action of the Boston Exchange was taken after the announcement was made of his suspension by the New York Exchange and was based on the same charges.

HISGEN CHARGES PUT GUILD ON THE RACK

IN FALL RIVER SPEECH HE ASKS PERTINENT QUESTIONS ABOUT JACKSON.

FALL RIVER, Oct. 18.—Has Chairman James F. Jackson of the Railroad Commission tendered his resignation to Governor Guild, so that he may accept a position with the New Haven railroad, and is he still remaining at the head of the commission at the Governor's request until the merger question is settled?

Thomas L. Hisgen, candidate for Governor on the Independence League ticket, created a decided sensation here last evening when at the close of his speech he addressed a series of open questions to Governor Guild the purport of which is contained in the opening paragraph.

The questions put by Mr. Hisgen were the more interesting because Chairman Jackson comes from this section of the State and is known personally by many of those in the audience.

Welcome for Leader.

The Independence League rally was a rousing one. McKinley Hall in the Wearers' Building was comfortably filled with an audience that followed the speakers with the closest attention and rewarded all of them with hearty applause.

After discussing labor matters and telling how the League stood on these propositions Mr. Hisgen attacked the proposed merger. He declared that he was opposed to the New Haven railroad getting any better footing in Massachusetts than it now has, and asserted that if he is elected Governor he will never sanction the merging of the New Haven and Boston & Maine roads. This declaration was loudly applauded.

Then Mr. Hisgen addressed the following statement and series of interrogations to Governor Guild:

If my memory serves me right I have read in the papers that Chairman Jackson of the Railroad Commission intends to resign in the near future.

I have been informed that Chairman Jackson has talked the matter over with you, Governor Guild, and that you asked him to defer his resignation until after the merger question was settled.

I have been informed that some of Chairman Jackson's closest relatives are financially interested in the New Haven road.

Now, then, Governor Guild, I would like to have you tell the people of this Commonwealth if Chairman Jackson has tendered his resignation to you as a member of the Railroad Commission?

I would like to have you tell the people of the Commonwealth if you have knowledge (official or unofficial) to the effect that he

HISGEN PUTS GUILD ON RACK BY QUESTIONS

In Fall River Speech Demands That Governor Explain Jackson's Actions.

HOLDING UP RESIGNATION intends in the near future to enter the employ of the New Haven Railroad; also to tell the people whether you know officially or unofficially that he has been offered a position by the New Haven Railroad?

Governor Guild, I would like you to tell the people, if you have, directly or indirectly, and, knowing that he has been offered such a position, sought to retain him as a member of the Railroad Commission, pending the settlement of the merger question?

And while you are about it, Governor Guild, won't you please tell the people whether or not you have knowledge of the alleged fact that Chairman Jackson's relatives are financially interested in the New Haven Railroad?

Governor Guild is scheduled to speak this evening at Waltham. Mr. Hisgen will address a meeting at the same time. The Governor will have a splendid opportunity to answer the questions in the big watch factory town.

Pledge Support to Hisgen.

After the meeting here many of those who had listened to the speakers walked forward and shook the hand of Mr. Hisgen and pledged him their support. The genial candidate for Governor was delighted with his reception here.

The meeting was called to order by John E. Deniger, president of the Fall River League. He said that Fall River was not in the clutches of any of the old parties—that the busy city thought for itself and acted accordingly. He then introduced Edward J. Cantwell, the League candidate for State Treasurer.

"I welcome you to cosmopolitan Fall River," said Mr. Cantwell, "and I trust that your visit here will be one of your cherished memories and your mission a grand success."

William N. Osgood, candidate on the League ticket for Attorney-General, was the first speaker. He was frequently applauded. In the course of his address he said:

Birth of the League.

"I wish to congratulate you upon this magnificent attendance. It was not necessary for us to burn red fire or employ brass bands to get a large attendance of the thoughtful people of Fall River at our meeting.

"We have come here to state our case and you have come here to hear it. The Independence League came into existence because there was a real demand for it.

"This government has fallen into the hands of the privileged few and we demand that it be given back into the hands of the people where it belongs.

"We of the Independence League want a popular government, not a commercial one.

Courts Not All to Blame.

"We hear a great deal said at this time about Courts of Equity and the way in which they have issued injunctions in labor cases. We should not blame the courts altogether.

"The members of the court are human. Judges are subject to the same influence from their environment as other people. You cannot, however, change human nature by throwing the ermine of office over their shoulders.

"Judges are lawyers, and a lawyer is elderly-minded in what the law is—and what it ought to be.

"It is the privilege and the duty of the people to ascertain what the law ought to be, and then see to it that it is made right.

Court Rights Should Be Defined.

"I want to say, also, that the rights of courts should be clearly defined, so that those who are subject to them would understand their legal rights under the courts. Men on strike should know what they may legally do under the circumstances.

"As the courts stand now they pay more attention to property rights than they do to personal rights.

"We should respect the rights of property and of persons, but I think that more attention should be accorded the rights of the individual.

"I want to say to you that the Independence League is the safest and most conservative party in existence in the United States to-day."

Principles Demanded.

Mr. Osgood discussed the employers' liability law. He said it should be changed so that it would treat the employe more fairly.

He suggested that all employes be compelled to collect evidence in connection with an accident and make it accessible to the injured person before he was able to make use of it.

"I ask you," said the speaker, "not so much to vote for the candidates as for the principles we represent.

"Our standard-bearer, Mr. Hisgen, is an honest, able and sincere man. He has spent his life battling with the most gigantic monopoly in the world, the Standard Oil Company.

"He has proved that he successfully, and he will never quit the present fight in which he is enlisted until he wins this fight.

Lodge and Whitney Scored.

Mr. Osgood was followed by Anson B. Elder, of Boston, who made a ringing address in which he scored Lodge and Whitney for running as their personal machines the Republican and Democratic parties.

In beginning he paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Osgood.

"I am sure," said the speaker, "that if Mr. Osgood were in the State House that financial despot, Frederick Mellen, would not act toward this man disfranchising Mr. Osgood as he did toward 1118 men, when he appeared there as a witness in connection with his attempt to swallow the Boston & Maine railway regardless of the law of the Commonwealth.

"These are vital principles in this campaign to be discussed. They concern every man, woman and child in the State, because they concern our bread and butter.

Two One-Man Parties.

"For the first time we have a clear cut and clean cut Independence party. We are charged with being a one-man party and it is declared that there is no need of a third party. But Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in his speech at the Republican convention clearly declared that it was well for there to be men who dung so closely to their old parties that they could act independently.

"As for the one-man party, pray what is the party headed by Whitney and the one led by Lodge. Of one thing certain, the Democratic party, if there be such a thing legally in the State, is doomed. The party that has come to stay and fight for the good of the people is that of the Independence League."

In a brilliant speech Walter L. Ramsdell, former Mayor of Lynn, closed the meeting. The League leaders in Fall River were highly pleased with the success of the rally.

CHINAMAN MARRIES PRETTY WHITE GIRL

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 18.—Edgar A. A. Donsang, a full-blooded Chinese, born in California, to-day was married to Miss Georgie Ferguson, a white girl of sixteen years. Her mother consented to the match after Donsang wooed the girl through the Summer. Donsang graduated this year from the University of Chicago and this Fall will attend the Kent Law School. He is twenty-one years old. He operated a restaurant here during the Summer, meeting the girl for the first time in July.

WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD.

Mary Donovan, aged forty-eight, was found dead to-day at her residence, No. 16 Bradford street, South End. It is believed she died of heart failure. The body was sent to the City Hospital morgue.

SHOOTS MAN; CHASED BY MOB; HELD IN $3,000

When Jeremiah O'Connor said Chester Lacine something about guinea pigs in a Bremen street stable, East Boston, William Scarino, who was passing with another Italian, thought O'Connor referred to him. He started a fight with O'Connor and was knocked down. Scarino whipped out a revolver and shot O'Connor in the wrist.

A crowd chased Scarino and, at the corner of Morris and Brooks street, John Bourne set his bulldog on the fugitive. The dog held Scarino while Bourne disarmed him. Scarino was badly pummeled by the crowd.

In East Boston Court to-day, Associate Justice Barnes held Scarino in $3,000 bail for the Grand Jury on a charge of assault with intent to kill, and fined him $20 for carrying concealed weapons. He appealed.

AGE SAVES HIM FROM SENTENCE

Declaring that the prisoner's age was all that saved him from imposing a prison sentence Judge Fallon in the South Boston Police Court to-day ordered John Thompson, sixty years of age, a special policeman for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad to pay a fine of $50 for assaulting a man he was arresting.

The complainant, Patrick Kane, with his head bandaged up, while one of his ears was held together with surgical tape, was a prisoner in the same court last Monday, charged by Thompson with stealing wood. Judge Fallon ordered him discharged after hearing the evidence. Thompson ought to be the man under arrest," remarked the court, as Thompson passed out of the room. James F. Manahan, attorney for Kane, immediately asked for a warrant, which Judge Fallon granted.

Kane testified that he was picking some small bits of wood while on his way home from work when Thompson came behind and battered him on the head with his club.

Thompson appealed his case and was held in $300 for the Superior Court.

BAD BREATH

"For months I had great trouble with my stomach and used all kinds of medicines. By tongue has been actually as green as grass, my breath having a bad odor. Two years ago a friend recommended Cascarets and after using them I can willingly and cheerfully say that they have relieved me of all these troubles. You know that I am recommending quantities of medicine from which I receive no benefit."—Chas. H. Haines, 164 E. 7th St., New York, N. Y.

OLD EMPLOYES DISCHARGED BY THRIFTY JOHN D.

Millionaire, Aiming at Economy, Sends Away Men on the Verge of Winter.

SUPERINTENDENT RESIGNS

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18.—With butter, eggs and bread all soaring higher, John D. Rockefeller has felt the need of economy. One result is that C. C. Jones, superintendent at his Summer home at Forest Hill, has resigned. Another is that a score of the oldest employes at Forest Hill have been discharged on the verge of Winter.

Some of them have been on the estate for many years. Jones came here from New Jersey. He secured a discount-a-day in wages for the employes on the estate. When John D. left for the East this Fall he told Superintendent Jones that he had better get rid of the gubbeins, who were going of little use this Winter. Jones thought it over and wrote his resignation. John D., Jr., replied, accepting it.

"I do not just like his system," Superintendent Jones explained. "I am a friend of the laboring man, and believe he should receive fair treatment. Some of the other conditions about Forest Hill also were not to my liking."

DEUTSCHLAND STUCK IN MUD

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—A rising tide and the tugs got the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland off a mud bank at a corner of the company's Hoboken pier early today. A four or five hours' wait for the lowering of the gangplanks had worn most of the passengers out, however, and few of them landed until daylight. The voyagers' anxiety to get ashore is held responsible for the mishap.

MINISTER GOES FROM PULPIT TO JAIL CELL

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF STEALING BOOK, PASTOR TEARFULLY BEGS RELEASE.

Charged with the larceny of rare and valuable books, Rev. Frederick L. Bullard, pastor of the Congregational Church in Brandon, Vt., faces the Municipal Court to-day, after a night in the Tombs.

The police are engaged in a vigorous investigation of the record and habits of the clerical gentleman, whom they believe may know something about the thefts of valuable volumes which have been finding their way from the shelfs of Boston book dealers into the New York markets.

Rev. Mr. Bullard was taken into custody yesterday on complaint of a clerk at the store of Charles E. Goodspeed at No. 5A Park street. In his pockets were found a copy of "A Christmas Carol," look published in London in 1573, and valued at about $20, and a copy of a limited edition of Stephenson's "Inland Voyage."

Bursts Into Tears.

Bursting into tears when he realized his position, the minister begged to be allowed to go, promising to pay for the works he had taken ten times over, and asserting that it was the first time he had stolen anything.

"Spare me this shame," he pleaded. "Let me depart. I am a minister and my whole future life will be blighted if this becomes known. I never stole before." But he was taken to headquarters and booked on the charge of several counts of larceny.

A search of his room in one of the best hotels in town brought to light a number of books so rare as to indicate that the prisoner is a Bibliopile. Among them were "English Comic Dramatists," by Oswald Crawford; "The Life of the Caesars," by Suetonius; "Tales from Shakespeare," by Charles and Mary Lamb; "Cecil," by Edith Birmingham and Alice Pollard; "The Evolution of the Master Key," by Kaleidy, and a "Modern Symposium," by Dickinson.

All the books were of exceptionally fine binding and plate work and were valued at about $100. A camera from the Boston Camera Exchange, valued at $20, was also recovered.

Think Thefts Are Large.

The police are under the impression that the arrested man has been stealing books on a large scale, as they claim to have the evidence on a number of different counts.

The fact that books stolen from the Goodspeed collection in Boston have been covered in New York and that Bullard's Boston thefts have been made in close proximity to those from which the New York stuff has been taken has caused the police to probe the affair thoroughly and startling disclosures may result.

Bullard yesterday afternoon flatly refused to be bailed, apparently hoping that the Vermont authorities would let hear of his crime.

In the eyes of the police, he has been a sort of Jekyll and Hyde. He was a fine pulpit orator, made a good impression everywhere he went, and has a wife and five children, who last night were reported to be visiting friends at 183 Holmes street, Worcester.

He is specifically accused by the agents of the society of one book valued at $50 on September 5, and the volume which caused his downfall yesterday, from the Goodspeed concern, one book from the firm of C. E. Laurist on Washington street, and five books on October 16 from [illegible]

WOULD GOVERN BOSTON BY A COMMISSION

Commercial Club Speakers Urge Radical Reform in Civic Administration.

Demanding that Boston be governed by a commission, before the Commercial Club of Boston at last night's meeting at the New Algonquin Club, Colonel Thomas L. Livermore and Jerome Jones called for radical reform in city affairs in strong addresses. The speakers were enthusiastically applauded by the audience, which included some of the most prominent business men of the city.

General William A. Bancroft, president of the club, was in the chair.

Colonel Thomas L. Livermore declared that in his opinion any private business run in the manner adopted by those responsible for the government of the city would have been bankrupt long ago. A debt increasing at the rate of $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 a year, he said, was the evil of government which Boston now faces.

"Tending to Bankruptcy."

Several things entered into the question, all of them tending toward one end — bankruptcy. The immediate causes are the extravagant prices charged the city for everything it uses, excessive salaries on the pay-rolls, outrageous rate of pay and unfaithful service.

Colonel Livermore also declared it to be his belief that it would be cheaper to pension every one of the old men on the pay-rolls and employ able-bodied men than to continue the system that has now been in vogue for many years. He would undertake to pay the pensions and do the work on $4,000,000 a year less than the city is expending now, he declared.

Other Cities Worse Than Boston.

Jerome Jones said that the Republican cities of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg and Philadelphia are about twelve times as corrupt as the matter of stealing as the city of Boston. Nevertheless, he believed that the findings of the finance commission indicate that the stealing schooner Alma was lost in the recent gale, together with her crew of ten men. In the wreckage were parts of the schooner, seamen's clothing and a bag, the property of one of the crew. Little hope is entertained that any of the fishermen have escaped.

'I'LL KILL THAT CAD CLARKSON,' CRIES OSBORNE

Lawyer Who Claims Miss Maloney as His Wife Threatens Death to Englishman.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Samuel Clarkson has proved himself a cad, and it is for me, as the husband of the misguided companion of this Englishman, to kill him at sight," declared Arthur H. Osborne, well-known lawyer and husband of Miss Helen Maloney, last night.

"Just as soon as I learn where that Clarkson person is, I will put on my hat and coat and go after him," continued Osborne, who resides at No. 1 West Eighty-first street.

"If Miss Maloney, or Mrs. Osborne, as she is in truth, is to be saved in the eyes of the world, it is for this man Clarkson to act quickly. My wife has been deceived shamefully. He knew, I am confident, that she was married to me before he influenced her to go with him."

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Samuel Clarkson and Miss Maloney were in London on Monday, October 14, and called during the day at the residence of the famous Father Bernard Vaughan of the Society of Jesus, seeking his advice on their marriage, but on being informed that he was in the country they wrote to Father Vaughan, setting forth the circumstances under which they had eloped and requesting the priest to legalize their marriage in the eyes of the church.

BOY STRUCK BY AUTO; MAY DIE OF HURTS

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Oct. 18.—Frank Martin, seven-year-old son of Arthur Martin of Maple street, Plainville, is to-day in a critical condition as a result of being struck by an automobile last evening. The Martin boy and three others were playing in the street in front of the Rooney House, when a large touring car, owned by C. W. Blanchard of No. 595 Dudley street, Roxbury, approached. The boys ran in different directions, but the Martin boy failed to reach the sidewalk. He was struck a glancing blow and hurled to the side of the road.

REPUBLICANS BALK AT PRINCE; MAYOR HAPPY

Conference Fails of Agreement Between G. O. P. and Good Government Leaders.

That the officials of the Republican City Committee will refuse to accept as their candidate for Mayor Dr. Morton H. Prince, suggested by the Good Government Association, is the statement made by various Republican leaders to-day. It has been pointed out to President Graves and Secretary Hormel that to accept Prince, a Democrat, would disrupt the organization, and that even if they agreed to accept him it would be impossible to deliver the Republican nomination to him in the primaries.

Dr. Prince's name was put up to the Republican party yesterday as an affirmation by the Good Government people, who stated that if he was not accepted they would make no further attempts to combine forces with the Republicans. Only the promise that if Prince was nominated a $50,000 campaign fund would be available prevented an open break yesterday.

The break, it is predicted, will come to-day, however. Pressure is being exerted upon Messrs. Graves and Hormel to turn the Good Government people down and not allow them to dictate the nomination of the Republican party. Charles H. Innes, it is said, has notified the officials of the city committee that if they accept Prince, he will run against him in the primaries. Street Commissioner William E. Hannan, who has taken out nomination papers, says that he is in the fight to stay, regardless of whom the Republican City Committee or the Good Government Association selects.

Rebellion.

When a nation rises in its wrath to throw off the shackles of a government that has become odious the standard of defiance is unfurled and the alarm sounded for attack. The rebellious spirit of ailments, arising from the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood, is speedily broken with Dr. Burkhart's Vegetable Compound. Last year, in 15,000,000 instances, the rebellious attacks of disease were frustrated by taking this famous remedy. It is a purifier of the blood and a stimulator of the nerve system. It accepts no compromise, but overthrows the enemy completely, and in no instance extending a pardon to the vanquished foe. By removing the cause of the malady it performs a radical cure. Thirty days' treatment 25c. All druggists.

POSITIVELY LAST CHANCE!

A month's treatment free, including all medicine, given to all patients applying at the office of the Osgood-Chenoy Pavilions, 18 Boylston street, on or before Oct. 31st. There will be no charge for consultation or the most careful examination with the X-Ray. Office hours, 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 4 and 6 to 9 p. m. Ladies only.

Cruel Old Rod Banished From Schools of Boston

Supt. Brooks Declares Patience Will Conquer the Average Child.

Superintendent of Schools Stratton D. Brooks, who is in command of Boston's school army of 110,000 children, declares that the rod has been banished forever from Boston schools.

"Patience will conquer the average child," said Superintendent Brooks today. "Brutal whipping, as it was done in the old days, is wrong. It has been done away with."

"You ask what are our instructions to our teachers and principals about punishing the children placed in their care."

The instructions were put in general terms. Corporal punishment, but these are almost bodily cases and each year fewer and fewer children are punished in the schools by the old method of whipping.

Girls Are Never Whipped.

In this interview, Superintendent Brooks tells of the absolute rule against cruel and unusual punishment of school children of Boston, the rule which he as superintendent is bound to enforce.

As for his personal opinion, Mr. Brooks explains that he believes that there are a few children in the world who cannot be reasoned into goodness without the aid of an old-fashioned spanking.

"You know," began Mr. Brooks, "that the girls are never whipped, and the teachers and principals are only allowed to strike a boy with a light female open the palm of the hand. The attendants of the Latin or the High School are exempt from even this rule.

"Teachers and principals are also forbidden to punish a child for any offense whatever by confining him in a closet or a wardrobe. We even go further and prohibit the use on the part of the teacher of any sarcastic or disparaging language.

Manage By Patience.

"It has been my experience that children can as easily be managed by patience as by chastisement, although in every school you will find one or more boys who cannot be made to obey in any other way than by whipping them.

"And never, never should a child be whipped before the other pupils. Take Mr. Brooks made most emphatic. "In the first place if a child is whipped in front of a room full of other children it will have a very bad effect upon his nervous system, which will injure the boy long after the effect of the punishment has worn off.

"To single one boy out for punishment and to place him in front of a room full of other children should be prohibited although there is no such rule which the principals are asked to see enforced.

"Now I personally believe that some children cannot be made to see the errors of their ways until they had had a good spanking.

New Cures for the Unruly.

"The whip, as used in the old sense, has practically been banished from the Boston public schools. Teachers and principals are gradually coming around to the idea that if a child has been disobedient, keeping him after school and giving him much standing to do is dreaded far more by the offender than a whipping should be. Children are not allowed to remain in during the noon intermission on any cause what ever.

"I have never received complaints from any parent, nor have any of the members to my knowledge been requested by the parents of their pupils to abolish any punishments. Parents are frequently side with the teacher, because well they know what she has to put up with.

"If a mother cannot manage her two or three children, how much harder must it be for a teacher to have to make forty or fifty little boys and girls behave properly.

"Once in a while you hear of some brutal case of corporal punishment, but these are almost isolated cases and each year fewer and fewer children are punished in the schools by the old method of whipping.

CATHOLIC UNION WILL OPEN SEASON

VANDERBILTS REBUKED BY ANGRY ACTOR

William Collier Couldn't Stand Loud Talk of Gladys, Her Mother and Fiance.

MRS. NORRIE IS RECONCILED

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 18.—William Collier, the comedian, flying here in Caught in the Rain," practically rebuked Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, Count Szechenyi, the latter's fiance, and other society folk in the opera house. It was about the end of the first act when the actor vented his resentment of interruptions by the party, who were seated in a box. They had been chatting practically all the time the curtain was up, and finally their voices rose so high that the attention of the other spectators was diverted.

Collier, confused, tripped in his lines, and during a tense silence the buzz of loud conversation from the box again attracted him and, looking up, he said, angrily:

"Who is that?"

Immediately the party lapsed into silence while the comedian, with another upward glance of resentment, continued his part, in an sweet temper.

The box party marked the reconciliation of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. A. Lanfear Norrie, who, a few days ago, were estranged because Mrs. Norrie gave a dinner in honor of Mrs. Vanderbilt, at Dutch Inn and the Count and Countess of the three appeared. Mrs. Charles H. Baldwin managed to patch up the differences, and introduced Mrs. Norrie to chaperone the party.

SEA BETWEEN THEM; COUPLE WED BY PROXY

Aged Father Sent to Holland to Place "Cupid's Glove" on Bride's Hand.

PAIR MEET IN NEW YORK

Lawrence von Haaften, a civil engineer of Sault Ste. Marie, taking advantage of an ancient Dutch custom, sent his father, Marinus, aged and venerable, to his home in the quaint town of Kinderdyke in Holland. There the old gentleman, pressing "Cupid's glove" upon the hand of Miss Mina Mussert, made love, according to the ancient custom, in behalf of his son.

The father's instructions were to bring the bride to this country as fast as steam would carry them; so, when the steamship Nieuw Amsterdam of the Holland-America line, docked in Hoboken the expectant "Larry" was on the pier patiently happy.

A pretty little Dutch girl, her cheeks the color of roses, was one of the first to leave the ship, holding tight to the arm of her new father. Through the crowd on the pier little Miss Mina saw her betrothed. There was a joyous shout and in ten seconds she was wrapped in the arms of her husband, so made by the old Dutch custom. The caress which followed was long and lingering. The couple seemed oblivious to all others on the pier.

Nearly four years ago Lawrence came here and went direct to the Michigan mining centres, where he prospered. Several times did he plan to return to Holland to marry his sweetheart of childhood days, but each time something prevented. Then he sent his father as his proxy.

The young couple will remain in New York several days sightseeing. Mina is twenty-one; her husband is twenty-six.

W. L. DOUGLAS
THE BEST $3.50 SHOES

Men in every walk of life, in all professions and trades, the gentleman of leisure and the workingman—all wear W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes because they are the best.

$25,000 Reward
To any one who can prove that W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are not the best value for the money they advertise, or that they can make a better shoe than any other manufacturer.

THE REASON W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are worn by more men in all walks of life than any other make, is because of their excellent style, easy fitting and superior wearing qualities. The selection of the leathers and other materials for each part of the shoe, and every detail of the making is looked after by the most complete organization of superintendents, foremen and skilled shoemakers, who receive the highest wages paid in the shoe industry, and whose workmanship cannot be excelled.

If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than any other $3.50 shoe.

My method of tanning the bottom soles produces more flexible and longer wearing leather than any other tannage.

W. L. DOUGLAS GILT EDGE SHOE
Cannot Be Equalled at Any Price.

W. L. DOUGLAS BOYS' SHOES $1.75 AND $2.00. JUST THE SAME AS MY MEN'S $3.50 SHOES, THE SAME LEATHERS, FOR $1.75 AND $2.00.

CAUTION. The genuine have W. L. Douglas name and price stamped on bottom. Take No Substitute. When in need of shoes, if not convenient to go to W. L. Douglas store, ask your dealer for W. L. Douglas shoes. If he cannot supply you, send direct to factory. Shoes mailed everywhere. Illustrated Catalog free.

A Tailor's Fit at Half a Tailor's Price

Copyright 1907 The House of Kuppenheimer Chicago

This is by far the most sensational men's clothing value in Boston, but do you know that we are selling as many Kuppenheimer suits and overcoats at $18.50 and $25, as we are selling of these suits and overcoats at $10.

We want to make it clear to every man that this is not what is termed a "class" clothing store, that is, a store that caters to any particular class of trade.

At $10, $12, $14.50, $17.50, $20, $25, $30 and $35, we are showing the best range of clothing values in Boston, so there is a price for every man, no matter what he wants to pay.

We do not carry anything lower than a $15 suit or overcoat, because when you get below that price you run the risk of getting something that is not strictly satisfactory, and in order to compete with the stores that sell $10 and $12 suits and overcoats, we make a specialty of the BEST

$15 Suit and Overcoat in Boston for $10

The Kuppenheimer suits and overcoats at $25 are incomparable with anything shown by any other clothing store in Boston. Only the highest class merchant tailors can equal them, and their prices are $40 and $50.

Men's $3.50 Shoes $2.19

We are selling these shoes to hundreds of men who for years have paid $3.50 a pair for their shoes, and our old customers who purchased their shoes of us last Spring and a year ago this Fall are coming back every day to buy their shoes for Fall and Winter.

These shoes are made by some of the best known manufacturers in Massachusetts (we cannot mention the names) as other stores are selling them at $3.50 and it would tend to injure their business. They are equal in every respect, in style, in wearing qualities and in the fact that they are strictly comfortable shoes.—to any of the shoes on the market selling for $3.50.

The great Saturday sale this week includes 500 pairs men's patent leather shoes in lace, blucher and button styles, four different shapes are shown, and they are all very dressy. All have welted soles. Sat-urday sale price $2.19

MEN'S TERRY CLOTH BATH SLIPPERS, some very pretty and neat combinations with and without backs, VALUE 75c, special at 39c

CONVENTION OF LABOR MEN AT MILFORD ENDS

State A. F. of L. Makes Strong Demand for Anti-Injunction Bill from Next Legislature.

ASK NEW REFERENDUM BILL

MILFORD, Oct. 18.—Demanding that the State Legislature heed the moral and legal rights of organized labor and the working classes, the State Branch of the American Federation of Labor passed a number of resolutions yesterday when they adjourned after the most successful State convention in the history of the labor movement in this State. The strong condemnation of Lieutenant-Governor Draper for his opposition to the workingman and organized labor, the determination to push through the next Legislature an anti-injunction bill, and the calling upon the Legislature to take ownership and control of the Boston & Albany Railroad were the features of the session which started on Monday last.

Against Injunction System.

It was the unanimous expression of the delegates that the present system of granting injunctions is entirely wrong and giving one judge the sole power to try, convict and sentence any violation thereof is giving too much power to one man and it was voted to have a bill drawn up and presented to the Legislature placing restrictions upon such practice and compelling a jury trial for defendants.

The action of District-Attorney John B. Moran in prosecuting a number of cases violating the eight-hour law is lauded by certain delegates, and a resolution was passed instructing the executive committee to turn over to the proper authorities all evidence regarding eight-hour law violations so the proper legal authorities that justice might be enforced.

Henry Sterling of Boston in an eloquent plea took the floor in behalf of obtaining the passage of the initiative and referendum bill in just such a form as will obtain such a bill it will mean the overturning of the treats of the combines and the working people. If we can have placed on the ballot at elections those measures that a majority of the working people desire and have them made law in case a majority of the voters so ballot, we can put a stop to treat legislation and obtain laws that will give the workingman his rights.

Instructed to Prepare Bill.

It was voted to have the Legislative Committee draw up a bill and present it at the next session of the Legislature.

The convention placed itself on record as favoring the course of their State Legislative agent, D. D. Driscoll, for urging certain labor measures before the last Legislature referred to a recess committee.

John C. Hickey of the Bartenders' Union was elected a member of the Legislative Committee.

In all ninety resolutions were enacted upon by the convention.

$5,000 OR NO WEDDING BELLS

In retaliation on the girls of Roxbury who have banded together and agreed not to marry a man unless he earns at least thirty-five dollars a week, fifteen young men of the district have organized a $5,000 dowry club, which means that no member of the club will wed a Roxbury girl unless her parents are willing to toss in $5,000 as an inducement. The officers of the new club are:

Robert Chipman, president; James H. Coffey of 24½ Warren street, vice-president, and P. J. Donovan, a well known professional ball player, treasurer.

Grocery Clerks Meet.

The East Boston Grocery and Provision Clerks, No. 1130, elected officers in Carpenters' Hall, corner Littlefield and Bennington streets, as follows: John McCormick, president; William Sullivan, first vice-president; Joseph Bolger, second vice-president; John Kelliher, financial secretary; Angus Nelson, treasurer; William Lane, recording secretary; Frank Cashman, guard. Organizer J. Kiernan, international organizer, expects to organize the Chelsea clerks at a meeting to be held in the C. L. U. Hall next Tuesday.

Frank J. Kiernan, international organizer for the International Union of Clerks' Protective Associations, will organize the Malden clerks at a meeting to be held in Carpenters' Hall, Moody street, Waltham, next Sunday.

An open meeting will be held before the regular meeting of the Boston Retail Clerks in the Boyle O'Reilly Hall, corner Dorchester and Albany streets, next Sunday. There will be a number of speakers. Every clerk in Boston is invited to be present.

WALTHAM TO HEAR HISGEN THIS EVENING

Enthusiastic Rally Planned for Endicott Hall in the Third Speech of Campaign.

A rousing reception will be given tonight to Thomas L. Hisgen, Independence League candidate for Governor, who will make the third speech of his campaign at a rally in Endicott Hall.

The other speakers will include Grenville S. McFarland, chairman of the executive committee of the State Committee; William N. Osgood of Lowell, candidate for Attorney-General on the League ticket; Justin T. Amerbach, who is out for the Senate, and local orators.

Though Waltham is a strong Republican city, there is a large independent element which is ready to swing to a gubernatorial candidate as forceful as the Westfield leader of the Oil Trust. The force of men employed in the local watch factories and other plants are solid for E. Gerry Brown for Lieutenant-Governor, and the League ticket is expected to poll a large vote in this city.

YOUNG VOTERS IN WARD 17 DECLARE IN HISGEN'S FAVOR

Charley J. Kidney, Independence League candidate for the House of Representatives in Ward 17, held a meeting at his headquarters at No. 455 Dudley street that evening and received very encouraging reports from every precinct in the district.

That the candidate for the Independence League for Governor, Thomas L. Hisgen, is very favorable to the voters of the ward was manifested in the remarks of some of the young men who are urging Mr. Kidney's cause. "We found," they said, "that many of the voters of the ward are going to vote for the Independence League ticket from top to bottom."

Mr. Kidney has been making a house to house canvass and is promised support on all sides. All the young men of the district feel that the slogan "Ward 17 offices for Ward 17 men" will result in victory for Mr. Kidney and Mr. Norman, the Independence League nominee.

AERONAUTS ON TRIAL FLIGHTS FOR BIG RACE

Speeding Balloon Outstrips Train and Trolley in Nine-Mile Race.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 18.—Ballooning teams that are to compete in the international races for the James Gordon Bennett cup next Monday, ascended yesterday in smaller balloons, with the expectation of staying up all night to test ballooning conditions in the darkness.

Aeronauts J. C. McCoy and Captain Charles D. Chandler, who will man the American in the race, ascended at 4:19 p. m. in the United States Signal Corps balloon No. 10 and drifted off in a northerly direction.

Two hours later Allen E. Hawley and Augustus Post, pilot and aid respectively of the balloon St. Louis, made a flight in the Stevens No. 21, taking the same general direction as McCoy and Chandler.

Both the government balloon and Stevens No. 21, are small compared with the cup contenders, but the aeronauts figured that almost ideal weather conditions would enable them to remain in the air until daybreak.

Seats Steam and Electric Cars.

Up to midnight but one of the ballooning teams had been reported as sighted, and that was when the McCoy-Chandler craft hovered for a short time over Edwardsville, Ill., twenty-five miles north of here. The Edwardsville reports tells of a spirited race of the balloon with a Wabash Railroad train and with an interurban electric car, in which the aeronauts were victorious. The course caused to be run parallel track and, although the train and cars made the nine miles in grade in sixteen minutes, the balloon finished a quarter of a mile ahead.

While the big balloon, America, which J. C. McCoy has in pilot in the international aero races here next week, was being inspected yesterday the varnish suddenly ignited from spontaneous combustion, and the big silk bag was slightly damaged. The crated balloon arrived from New York by express last night.

Will Repair Balloon.

Aeronaut Stevens, who built the America, said:

"Spontaneous combustion damaged the balloon, but not enough to interfere with its participation in the contest, as the damage can be repaired."

SWITCH OPEN; 5 DIE IN WRECK

GREENSBORO, N. C., Oct. 18.—Due, it is said, to the carelessness of a flagman in leaving open a switch on the main line, a passenger train collided with a freight on the Southern Railway, and as a result five persons are reported dead to-day and nine seriously injured.

Outside of the fireman of the freight, who was killed, all of the casualties occurred among those on the passenger train. None of the dead has been identified.

ORGAN MUSIC AT HER GRAVE

MILFORD, Oct. 18.—In accordance with a request in her will, just filed at Worcester, every effort will be made to have the funeral of Mrs. Harriet N. Smith of Milford conducted by Mrs. Smith's will, dated January 4, 1884, says:

"I wish the last rites at my grave, while they usually too sad and sorrowful, be made as cheerful and buoyant as possible. I therefore direct that my parlor organ be there used to accompany the vocal music I then desire to be rendered."

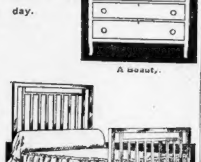
GIVEN AWAY

Spring Given Away.

White enamel which is becoming more popular every day.



A Beauty.

A Dresser.

White enamel, the coming furniture for beauty, cleanliness and economy.

Brass bed in the new square post finish.

In order to clean up the factories that we are interested in we will present absolutely free of charge to all persons who purchase a steel bed at ten dollars or more, or a brass bed at twenty-five dollars or more, a first-class National spring bed to fit.

Our metal beds are growing in popularity more and more every day. We have been selling brass and enamelled steel beds in white and fancy colors for many years. From time to time our line has grown better and handsomer as well as more reasonable in price, and we believe we now have the largest as well as the best selected stock of beds at lower prices, quality considered, than any other distributors in New England. Our brass beds are genuine brass beds and our steel beds are genuine specially prepared steel beds, made to last. We have sold more metal beds so far this year than ever before and still increasing, but we want to do better, therefore we are making the above special offer during this month.

CHAPTER V.

SOON taking up the story again, lest, during the commemorative Zara, I found that money was on the wing. Twenty-five per cent. had been offered and refused. Predictions were out that an unprecedented day of disaster was to follow. Every city of importance had been affected. It being Fall, money had been engaged for the Winter wheat, and quarterly dividends were not yet due.

Men and banks were throwing blocks of stock into the market to meet their obligations. No one wanted stocks. It was gold and gold only.

The cables were hot with news of a similar panic abroad among the English creditors of Japan. They had engaged the gold to other borrowers and were clamoring at Tokio for a second issue of bonds at a higher rate of interest to cover their own promises they were compelled to pay for gold in their transactions, nevertheless the fact that Tokio was offering the bonds to pay the daily rate of interest in London, during their delay in redeeming their bonds.

But Tokio waited, promised, and did nothing.

At the office of the Japanese Consul, I managed to worm out the object of his visit with Zara to Silvers, before my story of the impending panic had presented the situation to the world.

The visit was for the purpose of requesting him to sell, at once, the securities of the Fidelity Company so as to begin the immediate engagement of gold for the redemption of the bonds and the consequent relief of the London market.

The panic had not yet started, it will be noted.

Silvers had refused to sell the securities, declaring an offer to sell would break the market, and he offered to accept the six millions stolen as a loan to the bank to bear interest at .06 until such time as he could dispose of the stock, which he said would be in a few days, an underwriting syndicate being formed to take them off his hands.

Refuse Offer

His offer was refused, it being pointed out that, under the conditions of the English loan, the Japanese Government was obliged to pay the daily rate of interest at London during default on the redemptions. The Japanese syndicate had assumed this risk, and in the event of a panic abroad it would spell ruin.

Silvers then agreed to enter into a similar arrangement, i. e., to pay the daily rate of interest on the principal until he had made good the default. To secure this payment of interest he pledged the assets of the bank, and for the principal he turned over the collateral of the Fidelity Company. This proved acceptable.

It was after this that the panic began upon the publication of our story.

At the opening of the market the following morning gold certificates were quoted at 100 per cent. A delegation hurried to Washington to urge a special issue. It could not be obtained unless Congress was convened for special session.

"May be something in this," said the ship news reporter that afternoon," handing me a paper on a slip of yellow paper containing a small note, that the Mystic, a yacht owned by E. S. Silvers, Boston, had been wrecked off the Azores and all hands rescued from a life raft by a tramp steamer. Running over the names he had found among those rescued a sailor named Hawthorne.

"Worth investigating," I commented, and, taking my hat, I sealed for the Sixteenth National Bank.

As I reached the entrance I was surprised to see considerable excitement about the place.

Zara, the Japanese consul and a couple of United States marshals were in the centre of a small army of clerks.

"What does this mean?" I demanded of the nearest clerk.

Bankrupt

"Involuntary bankruptcy," he said, dolefully.

I remembered instantly the arrangement of the previous afternoon, before the panic began, whereby Silvers had assumed the loss as a loan drawing market interest and had pledged the bank and the Fidelity Company collateral for principal and interest.

I waded through the crowd to Zara, who gave me a glorious smile and nodded in her quaint fashion.

"Mr. Silvers's securities under the present conditions of panic," she said, "were no longer sufficient to cover the principal and interest. That's all. The Japanese syndicate applied for a receiver as soon as the securities failed to cover the loss."

"That's too bad," I exclaimed. I was sorry for Silvers. He and his insurance company had made a gallant stand for the security of finance.

"It would have been too bad for the Japanese syndicate to be compelled to pay the present enormous interest for a second loan to cover the redemptions," she said, eyeing me narrowly. "I would mean ruin to raise money now. In fact it would be impossible."

I told her of the coincidence of the name of the sailor on Silvers's yacht with that of the missing cashier.

"That isn't a coincidence," she asserted, "considering that the yacht was scuttled."

"Scuttled?"

"Certainly," she replied, as if greatly surprised at my tone.

"Well," I exclaimed, "who scuttled it? Why was it scuttled?"

She seemed absolutely astonished at my question.

"Don't you understand this whole thing yet?" she asked.

I have blundered around trying to find out things and not getting any result to speak of," I replied impudently. "What I want to know, and I want to know it so badly that my head threatens to strike a fissure, is where is that money? Was it on the yacht?"

"The money?" she echoed. "Oh, the money is in——" She hesitated and shook her head: "no, I shall not tell you now. I'll call for you this evening at the of fice."

Later in the afternoon I saw Silvers. He was in his automobile and the most placid, contented looking individual imaginable. He was on his way home.

(To Be Continued in the Boston Sunday American.)

VESUVIUS THREATENS.

NAPLES, Oct. 18.—A panic was caused here to-day owing to the sudden cessation of smoke from all the craters of Vesuvius, accompanied by loud detonations, which usually mean a resumption of activity on the part of the volcano.

His Cigar Doesn't Taste Right

And Yet It Is the Same He Was Smoking With So Much Relish After Dinner Last Night. Out of the Very Same Box, Too.

IT ISN'T THE CIGAR—IT'S THE STOMACH.

Every smoker has experienced this peculiar condition of the stomach and liver, the result usually of imperfect digestion of food. And the blame is usually put on the cigar and not where it belongs.

Such men are usually high livers, hard workers mentally, living under high pressure and high draught, and it doesn't take a great deal to disorder the stomach or render the liver torpid.

They should make it a practice to use some tried and reliable remedy like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, that will aid Nature and not force it and will take care of the sudden attacks of acute indigestion.

The use of these tablets is not to be confounded with the patent medicine habit. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a patent medicine, but are composed of the very elements which nature provides the healthy stomach to do the work of digestion—pepsin, diastase, golden seal, etc. There is no secret in their preparation—they are absolutely pure and therefore all the world uses them.

No matter how disordered the stomach may be, it will right itself if given the chance. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest food where the stomach can't, give the abused stomach and intestines a rest, and offer renewed strength to the worn out glands and muscles.

Brain workers can rely on Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, no matter how tense the strain. All druggists carry them in the fifty cent packages, or if you prefer a free trial package can be had by sending your name and address today. F. A. Stuart Company, 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

CHEAP TAILORS and THE WISE PUBLIC

The frantic efforts of the cheap tailors to get business these days is a healthy sign of the wise awakening of the public to the fact that well made, good fitting, satisfying clothes cannot be made for absurdly low prices.

We have been tailors for more than 30 years and we know what we are talking about when we say that if you pay less than $20 for a suit you cannot get good cloth, good fit or good style, for the simple reason that good cloth costs money, good style means expert highly paid cutters, and then, again, the making and trimmings command a fair price, all of which means that good clothes, like gold dollars, cannot be had for less than their real value.

A Swagger, Up-to-Date Carefully Made, Nobby Suit or Overcoat Made to Your Order for $20

CONTEST CONDITIONS

THIS story will run through the week. The final chapter, in which the mystery will be solved, will be printed in next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN.

The only day on which no instalment of the story will appear will be Saturday. The next to the last chapter will be printed Friday, and then everybody will have until 9 p. m. Saturday in which to solve the mystery.

The person who solves the mystery most accurately will receive the first prize of $50.

If no one solves the mystery accurately, the one who comes nearest to a correct solution will receive the first prize.

REMEMBER

That this is a test of SKILL IN THINKING, not skill in writing. All you have to do to win first prize is to THINK OUT the solution of the mystery QUICKER than somebody else. The literary merit of the answers will not be considered.

That in case two or more answers are equally correct, the prizes will be awarded ACCORDING TO THE POSTMARKS ON THE ENVELOPES, the one mailed first receiving the first prize, etc.

That persons living at a distance from Boston have just as good a chance to win prizes as those who live right in Boston.

NO ANSWER POSTMARKED LATER THAN 9 P. M. SATURDAY WILL BE CONSIDERED.

Address all communications to PRIZE STORY EDITOR, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

The highest-grade, lowest-priced clothing that bears the Union Label is Morse-made.

Improving Every Day

The aims and ambitions of this store are always plainly in evidence. We intend to make Wolf's a new store every day—one that will never grow old. That we need more room proves that what we have done is appreciated. What we shall do in the future is indicated by the alterations that are now going on. The standard we're working to is high enough to lift this business from the ordinary—and we shan't stop until we've made it your ideal of what a store should be.

Our store is full of interest today. Read this advertisement and you'll understand why. Make no mistake. Don't suppose that the printed news gives all the items of interest—the advertising is a finger-board—a mere guide-post.

Men's Fall Clothes

Perhaps you've never experienced the pleasure of buying clothes where your satisfaction is of greater importance than your money. It's possible, of course, that you've never traded here and don't know what this really means. If this is the case you'll receive a pleasant surprise and learn something worth knowing when you come here to buy. We deal in satisfaction as well as clothes.

Rich Widow's Claim to Actress as Long-Lost Daughter Brings to Light Sad Story of Blackmail and Death

MISS MARGARET ANGLIN. MISS LILLIAN STEVENSON.

Here are two photographs—one of Margaret Anglin, the actress, and one of Lillian Stevenson, the Brookline girl, who declares that she is a sister of the actress. Do they look alike? Judge for yourself. Mrs. Stevenson declares that the actress is her missing daughter Grace, who resembled her sister, Lillian, whose picture is printed here.

Like a ghost from a grave, the question as to the identity of Margaret Anglin, actress, has raised from the dust of a past decade the story of the mysterious disappearance of Miss Grace Stevenson, the young and beautiful daughter of a wealthy real estate dealer, from her Boston home and it is the strangest story of its kind in the annals of New England, combining romance, death and possibly murder.

Mrs. James Stevenson, mother of the missing heiress, maintains that Margaret Anglin, one of the most talented and attractive of stage stars, is her long lost daughter—the girl searched for by detectives and reporters far and near for years, the beautiful Boston girl who dropped out of sight as suddenly on April 26, 1897, as though swallowed up by the earth and, if not actually dead today, has been as far removed from family and friends ever since as if a tenant in a tomb.

New Light on Mystery.

Statements made by Mrs. Stevenson to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter shed stronger light on the mystery than have years of investigation and the expenditure of thousands of dollars in research.

It is now charged that James Stevenson, who was at one time reputed to be worth $6,000,000, was an easy victim for money sharks, who relieved him, in one way or another, of the most of his cash and used the beautiful missing girl as a tool to carry out their plans.

It is also said that, as death approached, the wealthy real estate man was harried to the South away from his friends and family by this band of blackmailers.

The death of Alender Stevenson, the son, who had taken up the hunt for his lost sister is also now recalled and it is claimed that he was the victim of a gang of hired assassins, who beat him to death to save their employers from arrest.

Says Husband Knew All.

Mrs. Stevenson is still firm in her belief that she has found her missing daughter.

"Not only do I believe that Margaret Anglin is my long lost Grace," she says, "but I believe that her father knew that she was going on the stage and aided her in gratifying an ambition she had long cherished.

"I say now," said the bereaved mother, "that my husband knew all the time up to the day of his death where Grace was. When she left her home here, she went to his office, where he gave her a large sum of money. I think it was at least $40,000.

"Perhaps he thought that by taking Grace away he would punish me. He had gone away very angry because I would not sign some papers. Grace was stage struck and she, no doubt, was delighted at the chance to gratify her ambition.

Comparison of Pictures.

"If Margaret Anglin is not my daughter why does she not deny it?

"Why does she refuse to see me and write no reply to a note sent to her by me and signed 'Mother?'

"I, of course, must be permitted to know who is my daughter, but how can a stranger to her doubt that Margaret Anglin is Grace Stevenson when they compare a picture of Grace taken ten years ago with one recently posed for by Miss Anglin. I would have all the world serve as a jury to look on this picture and look on that—and then decide whether or not the portraits are of one girl or two."

Mrs. Stevenson hinted at plot and intrigue so startling that it suggested a tale of a bygone age of chivalry and romance. She spoke in tones vibrant with sorrow and suspense. Still middle-aged and with not a white hair in her plentiful locks to tell the story of years of grief and unavailing search, she clings with a hope that cannot be stifled that her missing daughter is still alive.

Says Husband Had Secret.

The late James Stevenson was one of the best-known real estate operators Boston ever had. He owned a big hotel and at one time his wealth was estimated at $4,000,000. He was quick tempered and warm hearted and had a host of friends. But after Grace Stevenson disappeared, whether or not he knew where she had gone, his health began to fail and he aged visibly.

"There are things in this case," said Mrs. Stevenson, "so strange as to be almost unbelievable. Sometimes I think my daughter may have fallen under the hypnotic influence of a designing woman who wished to use Grace's talent for her own selfish ends.

"Perhaps Grace was the dupe of a woman who was the head of some clique whose machinations took her from her family.

"Saw Picture on Billboard."

"I have said and I still say that Margaret Anglin is my daughter, Grace Stevenson. I cannot understand why she is silent—why she does not admit the relationship unless she is under the influence of designing people bent upon keeping us apart.

"How can I tell you how much I have suffered and how much the search for Grace has cost us. My husband's fortune melted like snow and we searched for months regardless of expense and all to no avail until one day about two years ago I said my daughter, Lillian, saw upon a billboard in the street a picture of Margaret Anglin.

"'It's Grace!' we exclaimed in a breath. But we were doubly sure after we had gone to the theatre twice and seen her act. But she would not see us. She would not answer my note, and when I have tried to reach her since it has been the same story."

Sister Also Positive.

"Can you explain the statement that Miss Anglin was born on Waterloo street, St. John, New Brunswick, and the daughter of the late Timothy Warren Anglin, a prominent Canadian editor and parliamentary leader?" the BOSTON AMERICAN reporter asked.

Miss Lillian Stevenson answered for herself and mother.

"If Margaret Anglin is not my sister why does she remain silent? Couldn't she deny it publicly, if it were not true. As to your question, I do not know all the wiles of the press agent.

"If there is any clique working against us it may be powerful and have selfish interests at stake in hiding Grace's identity. But it is plain enough to me that Grace Stevenson is a phantom to Margaret Anglin—she that she never wishes to raise again. She has no wish to come to us."

MISS EILEEN ANGLIN LAUGHS AT CLAIMS OF MRS. STEVENSON

Miss Eileen Anglin, a sister of Margaret Anglin, is at present appearing with Cecelia Loftus and Lawrence D'Orsay in "The Lancers" at the Majestic Theatre. Miss Eileen has been for three years with Mme. Bernhardt's company in Paris, and is now playing her first engagement in Boston.

When seen at the theatre in reference to the story that her sister Margaret was the long lost daughter of James Stevenson, she said:

"When my sister was playing in 'Zira' at the Majestic Theatre two years ago, she received a note from Mrs. Stevenson asking to see her and claiming to recognize her as a long lost child. Thinking it was a joke, or a case of mistaken identity, my sister naturally refused to grant the interview.

"My sister was born in the Parliament Building in Ottawa, just thirty-one years ago last April. She is known in the Dominion as "the youngest Speaker of the House." Her earlier years were spent in Ottawa and she was educated first at the Loretto Convent in Toronto and then took a finishing course at the Sacred Heart Convent in Montreal.

How to Clear Identity.

Margaret had some preparatory training for the stage at a well known dramatic school in New York, the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, and then entered upon an active career which she has pursued for about thirteen years.

"At the time that Miss Stevenson disappeared she was playing with James O'Neil, so naturally she could not have been the missing girl. I presume that some fanciful or real resemblance to Grace Stevenson occurred to the mother on seeing the picture and the visit to the theatre induced the thought that this was really her daughter.

"However, a simple reference to the records in Ottawa will speedily convince her of the mistake and I hope that this strange story will not be brought up again."

CHILD CRUSHED TO DEATH AT HER PLAY

TAUNTON, Oct. 18.—Annie Doulin, six years old, was crushed to death between two sections of an iron smokestack at North Dighton last night.

The sections were lying on the ground preparatory to erection, and the Doulin girl was playing about them. They rolled together and the girl was caught between them and killed instantly.

QUINCY VOTERS RALLY AROUND HISGEN BANNER

Wage Earners Take Up Cry of League Leaders and Renounce Old Party Ties.

HANCOCK HALL CROWDED

That the candidacy of Thomas L. Hisgen, the Independence League candidate for Governor, is meeting with marked approval by the voters of Quincy was evidenced at the large and enthusiastic meeting held in his interests under the auspices of the Quincy Independence League City Committee in Hancock Hall, Quincy, last evening. President William Kelly presided.

"The Independence League," said Mr. Kelly in opening the meeting, "is the new party. It is pledged to those principles for which the laboring men, those who depend upon their hands for their day's pay, have been fighting for years—equal opportunities under the law."

William F. Sawyer, Independence League candidate for the Senate in the Seventh District, when called upon to speak, was given an enthusiastic reception. He said:

Votes of Protest.

"This new Independence League movement is a great and good factor in assisting the masses to throw off the iniquitous system of allowing corporations to make our laws. A vote for Thomas L. Hisgen and the rest of the ticket which he heads is a vote for decency and a protest against the bad policy pursued by both of the old parties."

John M. Peas urged the voters to get out and hustle for Mr. Hisgen, claiming that he represented everything that was good and pure in politics.

Thomas F. Phelan, Independence League candidate for the Senate in the Fourth District, Wards 9, 12 and 17, brought the greetings of the Roxbury branch of the League. He said in part:

"The men who stood by the people in the dark days when they needed a friend are the ones we should stand by today, and first and foremost among these is Thomas L. Hisgen, the foe of the Standard Oil Trust, the Independence League candidate for Governor.

All Felt Need of New Party.

"The need of a new party has been felt for a long time. To-day we feel it more than ever before. Coal, milk, bread and pies have all advanced in prices, but if Mr. Hisgen were Governor of this State he would immediately send a message to the Legislature demanding that the trusts cease in their cruel treatment of the poor by raising the commodities which keep their bodies and souls together."

Thomas Thayer, a well-known citizen of Quincy, said in part:

"The working men of Quincy have been muzzled for years by the Democratic and Republican parties. They have had nothing to say in the affairs of the city. I have toured this city and explained this movement to all in Boston brings home to these minds a fact that the ballot can get them their just rights."

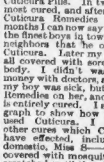
William L. Sullivan, Democratic candidate for the House of Representatives, pledged himself to stand for the platform of the Independence League and remarked it when voting on bills in the next Legislature he be fortunate in being elected.

Following the speechmaking there was an entertainment of vocal and instrumental music.

BOY AND GIRL CURED OF SORES

Which Broke out on Face and Body — Medical Treatment Did Them No Good—Mother Cured Both Her Little Ones and Now The

WHOLE FAMILY JOINS IN PRAISE OF CUTICURA



"My son's trouble was running sores which first appeared on his face and then broke out all over his body. I had tried doctor after doctor for three months but none helped him. Then I was advised to try Cuticura. My druggist said that he could give me a salve that would help him, but I demanded Cuticura Ointment and after using it for a while I was surprised to see an improvement. I treated the sores with Cuticura Ointment on soft bandages after washing with warm water and Cuticura Soap, and gave him the Cuticura Pills. In two weeks he was almost cured, and after the steady use of Cuticura Remedies for two or three months I can now say that I have one of the finest boys in town, and I tell all my neighbors that he owes his health to Cuticura. Later my little daughter was all covered with sores on her face and body. I didn't waste much time or money with doctors, as I had done when my boy was sick, but used the Cuticura Remedies on her, and now my little girl is entirely cured. I send you her photograph to show how she looks after we used Cuticura. I know of several other cures which Cuticura Remedies have effected, including that of our domestic, Miss Sarah ——, whose face was covered with mosquito bites which she scratched until they became a mass of sores and which she cured in no time with Cuticura Ointment. Our whole family joins in sending their thanks and praise for all that Cuticura Remedies have done for us." (Signed) Mrs. Rose Flos, 1208 W. SISTERS OF PROVIDENCE SAVE ORPHAN BOY'S LIFE

In Signed Statement They Tell How His Hopeless Case Was Cured by Father John's Medicine.

Among the children under our care was a poor orphan boy, eight years old, poorly nourished and suffering difficulty in breathing, cough, diarrhoea, indigestion and vomiting. The sisters who had him in charge consulted three different doctors, and they all pronounced the case hopeless, saying that the good care he enjoyed was all the help he could have, and it was useless to submit him to any new treatment.

When a sister received from a friend a present of a bottle of Father John's Medicine, she immediately started to give of the medicine to the little sick boy, with the wonderful result that after one month and a half with this treatment he was improved so much in strength and size that one could hardly believe it was the same boy that was seen a short time before in such a bad condition. He is now going to school and partaking in all the pastimes of his schoolmates—something that he never before was able to do.

It is therefore with the greatest pleasure and satisfaction the sisters recommend Father John's Medicine.

HEARST HITS BOSSISM AT THREE BIG RALLIES

INDEPENDENCE LEAGUERS CROWD HALLS IN ENTHUSIASTIC CAMPAIGN OPENING.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—With a wave of enthusiasm that carried quite alarm into the innermost camps of McCarren and Woodruff, William Randolph Hearst swept through Brooklyn last night, opening the Independence League campaign in the County of Kings.

From Williamsburg to East New York, Mr. Hearst was received with an enthusiasm that mounted to a personal triumph. The largest halls in the three districts visited were so filled that standing room was at a premium.

Each meeting was in size and spirit the direct opposite of the gloomy, lall-hearted opening attempts of the Democrats and Republicans.

There was no need for the Independence League leaders to use the excuse that opponents gave for empty halls—that it was an off year. The independent voters turned out in thousands. The following is the speech delivered by Mr. Hearst at the meeting in Brooklyn.

Fight Against Corruption.

My Friends—From one end of this State to the other the Independence League is making a conscientious and effective fight against bosses and the corrupt influences that control the bosses.

In Rochester the Independence League has combined with honest Democrats to overthrow Boss Aldridge. In Albany the League has combined with Independent Republicans and Independent Democrats to overthrow Boss Barnes. In Manhattan the Independence League has united with the Republicans to overthrow both Murphy and McClellan, whom prosperity and spoils parted, but whom adversity and the menace of the present have driven into each other's arms in tender reconciliation.

In Syracuse and Buffalo and Brooklyn the Independence League has put straight tickets in the field. I congratulate the League in Brooklyn on the ticket that it has put in nomination and on the demonstrated ability to win with a straight ticket.

I compliment the citizens of Brooklyn on their fine American spirit of independence, and I congratulate them, too, on having such an organization as the League, that stands ever ready and able to take up their cause and make their fight like a little David against the boss champions of both the old parties.

Bossism but One Goliath.

In fighting bossism in both parties we are only fighting the one Goliath. The arms and many be different, but the head and body are the same.

One well-aimed blow upon the forehead of especial interest, between the eyes of pull and privilege, and down falls the whole giant of political corruption. And when the giant falls, the McCarren leg and Woodruff leg, the Woodruff arm and the McCarren arm, will be seen waving in the air together. The true and common interest of the Ryan, Belmont and Brady order direct both Tammany friends, and the capacious paunch of boodle and graft supports both arms.

A Democrat cannot protest against McCarren by voting for the Republican ticket for McCarren would be almost as well pleased to see Woodruff's ticket win as his own.

A Republican cannot protest against Woodruff by voting for the Democratic ticket, for Woodruff would on fairly well satisfied and fairly well provided for if McCarren's ticket should win.

Partnership Financial.

The community of interest between the corrupt bosses of both parties and corrupt corporations of any old party is not merely political, it is financial.

To illustrate what I mean I am going to read you extracts from a certified copy of a document on file in the register's office in this borough:

"Know all men by these presents"—Know all men, as I am not discussing any confidences of these persons—"that the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, a corporation, organized under the laws of New York, party of the first part, for and in consideration of the sum of one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars, lawful money of the United States, to it duly paid by the United States Life Insurance Company, in the city of New York, hereinafter designated as the party of the second part, at or before the unsealing and delivery of these presents, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, has granted, bargained, sold, assigned, transferred and set over, and by these presents does grant, bargain, sell, assign, transfer and set over to the said party of the second part, a certain indenture of mortgage made to secure payment of the sum of one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars and interest bearing date of the thirteenth day of January, two thousand and five, made by the Harway Improvement Company, to the said party of the first part, and recorded in the office of the Register of the county of Kings on the fourteenth day of January, 1905, together with the collateral loan thereby secured."

N. Brady, Timothy L. Woodruff, George F. Dobson, Patrick H. McCarren and William V. Hester, to said Title Guarantee and Trust Company, for three thousand dollars, dated January 10, 1905."

There are the one bond, all rooted up together, are the signatures of that political finance, Anthony N. Brady, of blood devoted patriots, Timothy L. Woodruff and Patrick H. McCarren, and the owners and others of that fine journalistic four, the Brooklyn Eagle.

What a picture of peace and harmony, what a happy family, where not only the lion and the lamb, but the Republican elephant and the Democratic donkey all lie down together!

Here we have the subsidizing financier, here we have the financial boss and the Republican boss, here we have the representatives of subservient journalism, all standing together with their left hands interlocked in fraternal embrace and their right hands outstretched, empty, to the people.

What an example of independence of party ties, what a lesson for the independent voter!

If such as these can be non-partisan in politics, in purifying politics, then I denounce the rights and liberties of every citizen, and we can be, indeed, non-partisan in protecting our rights and liberties in purifying politics, and in electing honest men to represent all honest citizens, and, without fear of bosses or favor to special interests.

FLASH 5,000 WORDS IN DAY ACROSS OCEAN

High Winds Fail to Hamper Message on Opening Day of Marconi System.

INVENTOR IS SATISFIED

GLACE BAY, N. S., Oct. 18.—To-day telegraphic messages aggregating thousands of words are flashing through the air from the station at Port Morien, six miles from here, to the Irish station of the Marconi wireless company, and a regular transatlantic service is in full operation.

Beginning shortly after daylight yesterday, five thousand words were transmitted before dark by Marconi and his assistants and the success of the undertaking became assured.

The interest of the world centred on the result of the experiment and many guests were present to witness the workings of the system, including the representatives of scores of British and American newspapers.

"I am entirely satisfied with the result," said Mr. Marconi today. "You can say, however, that everything has worked splendidly.

"We are going to operate a limited service for a while, but we handled from 5,000 to 10,000 words yesterday. A large number of congratulatory and press messages were exchanged between London and New York. We did not transmit commercial or private messages as a rule, as we made it a sort of press day.

"You cannot call it an inaugural or opening. We had our opening two years ago, when telegrams were passed by our system between the President and the King. We have not, therefore, addressed anything to crowned heads, but are quietly starting to do a regular business between Europe and America in continuation of the old service."

BURGLARS IN MALDEN LOOT THREE STORES

Almost under the eyes of the police, burglars broke into three stores in Malden early to-day and got away with $100 to boot.

Scores of people walked through the square at the time the thieves were at work opening a safe and prying open money drawers in the various stores, in some cases working within a few feet of plate glass windows in plain view.

The daring of the thieves startled even the police. It is believed that the yeggs are professionals and are raiding stores in the hope of making a chance rich haul.

The store of Perkins & Sawyer was entered by a rear window and the safe opened. The thieves got $40 in money, a supply of postage stamps and private papers which are of no value except to the owners. They worked the combination of the safe.

At the store of Hicks & Rich they entered by a back window and secured a good watch from the money drawer.

They entered the store of C. A. Smith, but nothing was stolen.

PROBE BOARD REFUSES TO CALL LODGE

Decides Senator in Speech Made No Direct Charges, but Repeated Rumors.

NO DIRECT INFORMATION

Declaring that Senator Henry Cabot Lodge's speech at the Republican State convention, in which he scored the city administration, did not purport to be based upon personal knowledge, but stated explicitly that it was based upon "stories," the Boston Finance Commission to-day refused Mayor Fitzgerald's request that it summons Senator Lodge and request him to produce any information which he may have in his possession which would tend to "justify the grave language" used by him. Senator Lodge has already stated to District Attorney Moran that he has no information regarding City Hall graft.

The commission states in its letter to the Mayor that it has "sedulously avoided the investigation of mere rumors and has endeavored to confine its investigations to statements of fact."

"Merely Stories."

In a letter to the Board of Aldermen to-day the Finance Commission states that the request of the board that it consider the advisability of erecting a special municipal building for the sanitary, street, street cleaning and other departments has been taken under consideration and referred to the commission engineers for investigation.

The letter to Mayor Fitzgerald is as follows:

"Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor of Boston.

"Sir—In your letter to the Finance Commission, dated October 7, 1907, you asked the commission to request Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, United States Senator from Massachusetts, to produce any information which he may have in his possession which tends to justify the grave language used by him in his speech to the Massachusetts Republican Convention on October 4, 1907.

"The commission has examined the speech and your honor's reply thereto, and also the later statement of Senator Lodge in explanation of his convention speech.

Avoiding Rumors.

The first part of Senator Lodge's speech is evidently based upon the published proceedings of the Finance Commission and, therefore, calls for no further investigation by this commission. The second part of the speech does not purport to be based upon personal knowledge, but, on the contrary, it is stated explicitly to be based upon 'stories' and 'rumors.'

"The commission believes it would be unwise to summon Senator Lodge to state again what he has already stated on two occasions. The commission has been from the beginning sedulously avoided the investigation of mere rumors and has endeavored to confine its investigation to statements of fact, believing that any other course would tend to defeat the purpose which the commission was created to accomplish."

COUNCIL STARTS ON INSPECTION TRIP

The Governor's Council starts to-day for a tour of State institutions in the Western part of the State. To-night they take dinner with Senator Crane at Dalton and will spend the night at Pittsfield where Governor Guild is to speak at a rally. To-morrow they will visit the Hartford School for the deaf and dumb and the Northampton institutions. The council returns to Boston Saturday afternoon, Governor Guild remaining in Northampton to address a rally and returning Saturday evening.

ROCKEFELLER WITNESS TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—William G. Rockefeller, assistant treasurer of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, will be the last witness called in the hearing of the federal suit against the oil combine, the session of which adjourned to-day for four weeks. Mr. Rockefeller has telegraphed Moritz Rosenthal, one of counsel for the defendants, that he is prepared to take the witness stand.

Mr. Kellogg, the Government's attorney, is particularly anxious to know about the $32,000,000 loans made by the Standard Oil of New York to "interests other than the Standard" during 1906. Mr. Rockefeller is treasurer of the New York company, and Mr. Kellogg says he will inquire as to whom the loans were made and what collateral was accepted.

PUBLISHER'S LEG BROKEN BY AUTO

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 18.—W. C. King, aged fifty-eight, of No. 61 Thompson street, senior member of the firm of W. C. King & Co., book publishers, was knocked down on the sidewalk by an automobile. His leg was broken.

OUST STEACHER; PUPILS STRIKE

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Because Miss Olive Hurlbut, one of the teachers of the Barrington High School, has been asked to resign, sixty-five pupils have gone on strike.

Jealousy is said to be at the bottom of the trouble, but it is said Miss Hurlbut's resignation is asked because she flirted with some of the larger boys of the school. This she denies.

15⅔ PER CENT. INCOME

ON OUR COMBINATION OFFERING

Thomas W. Lawson is unquestionably right when he advises, through the columns of the newspapers of Oct. 17th, every Savings Bank and Trust Company depositor to withdraw Savings and Buy Stocks, Now.

In our opinion never has there been such an opportunity for investors to buy large dividend paying securities, as at present.

Our Combination offering of a 20% security and a 7% First Mortgage 10-year Gold Bond is the most attractive investment of the day of highly profitable dividend paying stock and interest bearing bonds, with a market value of $450.00, which we are privileged to offer to our customers at $300.00. This offering of safe—sound investment securities is the greatest profit bearing investment ever emanating from a financial house, yielding an income of nearly 11% on the market value, $450.00, or 15 2-3% on the actual investment of $300.00. Were it not for prevailing conditions, we would not have been able to have secured these 7% First Mortgage 10-year Gold Bonds, which we have placed in our Combination offering, thus giving to our customers the benefit of securing for $300.00, an investment that will yield them an income of 15 2-3 per cent, with a probability of a much larger return in the near future.

It is a well known and established fact that we have always been advocates of low Capitalizations and large dividends. We are, and will forever be, opposers to watered and inflated Capitalizations of Corporations.

The investing public are awakening to the fact that it is the small dividend paying securities that carry the greatest hazard.

They have begun to learn that Corporations with gigantic Capitalizations of watered stocks are dangerous and unsafe. The teachings they have received during the present year have taught them to seek investments outside of listed securities, or Stock Exchange stocks, where values are made by Manipulations.

Our Combination offering embraces stock and bonds that advance steadily and honestly in value day by day. They carry no water or inflation to deceive the investor. They earn an honest and substantial income for their holder.

Our Combination Offering Includes:

200 shares of Boston-Idaho Mining Company's stock, a 20% dividend security, par value $1.00 a share, market value $450.00.

100 shares Paymaster Consolidated Mines Company Stock, par value $1.00 a share, market value $300.00.

One $100.00 7% First Mortgage Convertible 10-year Gold Bond of the Paymaster Consolidated Mines Company, interest payable Semi-Annually, February and August, market value of these Bonds $100.00. Trustee, State Street Trust Company, Boston.

Boston-Idaho Mining Company's stock at $1.50 a share, the present price, will yield a net income of 13 1-3 per cent. annually at the rate of 3 per cent. quarterly on par, commencing next month.

In our opinion Boston-Idaho Mining Company's dividends will be largely increased before the end of many months, as the mill with its present capacity of 30 tons daily is earning a surplus over the dividend obligation of the Company, and as it has been determined by the directors to increase the mill capacity early next spring to 50 tons of ore daily, which is three times its present capacity, it necessarily follows that the dividends and surplus will be three times greater than at present.

The Capitalization of the Boston-Idaho Mining Company is $200,000. There are no bonds or preferred stock to have priority. It is all common stock and the profits go to the common stockholders. The stock being offered today at $1.50 a share has a book value of over $2.27.

The proceeds received from the the sale of the present allotment of Boston-Idaho Mining Company's stock embraced in our Combination, will be used in part to increase the Mill Capacity, as the ore supply is greatly in excess of the present capacity of the mill.

The present indications are that the Boston-Idaho Mining Company will never require outstanding more than 175,000 shares of the Capitalization of 200,000 shares.

Were we obliged to sell the securities offered in our Combination separately they would have to net our office $450.00. It is our candid opinion that in one year's time these securities will be worth and sell at $600.00.

The Paymaster Consolidated Mines Company

The Paymaster Consolidated Mines Company owns not only the Paymaster group but its extensions, consisting of twenty claims, on which eight shafts have been sunk, varying from 40 feet to over 300 feet in depth. From most of these shafts ore has been shipped in the past averaging in carload lots as high as $90 to $150 per ton, amounting to $440,000. This property is equipped with a 120 H. P. boiler and a 50 H. P. hoist, besides surface equipment.

The Paymaster Consolidated Mines Company own also the Olive, North Prosperity group with their extensions. There are three shafts on the Olivette claim from which high grade ore averaging upwards of $200.00 per ton was shipped to smelter.

The Paymaster Consolidated Mines Company is a going and producing Company. While as yet no dividends are paid on the stock, it has a market value of 20 cents a share.

Such famous engineers as Kempton & McCoy, Percy Williams, E. M. and Douglas Gray have examined and filed most favorable reports.

As this offering comprised only 50 Combinations of $300.00 each, and as every day brings to our office orders and enquiries, we would ask interested investors not to delay, but to act promptly. Send all orders direct to us.

We reserve the right, as is the custom of our office, to discontinue this offering at any time without notice.

Make all remittances payable direct to our order.

KING EDWARD PLANS VISIT TO AMERICA?

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra of England may pay a visit to the United States in the not distant future. It is regarded as a certainty here that unless something unforeseen intervenes their majesties will visit Canada in connection with the centenary celebration of the landing of Champlain.

In such event there is little doubt King Edward will take advantage of his presence on this side the Atlantic to visit the United States, which he admires so much.

The intimation that royalty will attend the Champlain celebration comes from Governor-General Grey, who has just returned from Toronto. He will say nothing definite, but from his general remarks it is believed the royal visitors are to be the King and Queen.

THUGS ATTACK AND ROB WOMAN IN BACK BAY

Women living in St. Botolph street say its neighborhoods are afraid to venture out alone late at night on account of the robbery and beating of Mrs. Mary A. Lamb of No. 160 that street, within a stone's throw of her home. Mrs. Lamb is in a critical condition, suffering from brain concussion on account of the attack.

Although the assault occurred late Wednesday night, it was not brought to the attention of the police until to-day and they are now searching for two thugs, a meagre description of whom was given by the victim.

Mrs. Lamb was returning home when two men attacked her, beat her and knocked her down, seizing a purse containing but $50. The men got away before anybody came to Mrs. Lamb's assistance in answer to her shouts.

CARNEGIE SEES MONEY CRASH

QUEENSTOWN, Ire., Oct. 18.—Andrew Carnegie predicts a financial crisis in America. He believes it has already begun in fact. It will extend to England, too, he says. He thinks, however, its extreme result will be good by restoring natural values and putting a stop to the general craze for speculation.

JAILED FOR 67 METER THEFTS

Albert Gilchrist and Robert Morrison have been sentenced by Justice Bishop of the Superior Criminal Court to the Massachusetts Reformatory in Concord, for an indefinite term, on an indictment containing sixty-seven counts for breaking and entering and larceny of money from gas meters, the property of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company.

Gilchrist and Morrison were arrested by Special Officer Joseph F. Loughlin of station 11, on September 13.

Dress an Index to Character

IT is quite remarkable how character shows in clothes, writes H. Stanley Clark in the London Caterer, and this applies most particularly to the weaker sex. Detail nowadays rides dominant and writes bowls or else across a woman with all the fatal decision and destiny of the moving finger.

From glaring instances in which economy always spells misery spring to my mind.

The first two are gloves and boots and shoes. Ill cut, ill fitting gloves cannot hurt and harm a hand as a shoe can a foot.

Happy, comfortable feet have a lot to say to health.

Another false economy is cheap corsets. Let some experienced corsetiere study your figure and carefully fit you—don't pin your faith on what the other people.

And the fourth false economy is—your tailor-made garment. If you can't go to a good man, then buy your coat and skirt ready made at some reliable house where you will be sure of a good cut and material and where the necessary alterations will be carried out by one of their own tailors.

The Other Side

Now for the reverse and less pleasant side of the shield—where to cut down.

First of all, start with a clear idea and realization what you have to spend on your dress annually. Apportion it quarterly, and as each quarter comes around decide what you will need and what you must do without during the next three months.

An important economy is not to get too many clothes. Get what you want and wear it out at once. Don't expect one garment to cover as many needs as charity is supposed to cover sins. How often women say, "Yes, I seem to have heaps of clothes, but nothing that is really right."

This purgatorial state of existence is the outcome of not knowing what you really want and will really have need of, and of trying to make one frock fit two functions, with the result that it is not really right for either.

An important economy, and not such a small one either, is not to buy too expensive materials. I do not for a moment counsel patronizing shoddy stuffs, but we don't wear out our gowns as our grandmothers did. We don't wear things to last forever. In fact, it is rather a drawback.

Start Over Again

On the other hand, all sorts of economies can be made and time saved by buying things in quantity instead of singly. Always buy in the cheapest market where you can, and people know that at sale times extraordinary economies can be effected by judicious and restrained marketing.

Notice, too, the reliable system in shops. Sometimes a shop starts by being cheap and raises its prices gradually as custom increases.

One most fruitful economy that most women ignore is the fact that, guaranteed regularity of custom and payment, most tradesmen will work for you much more cheaply than if you go to them by fits and starts.

Another thing is, look ahead a little in ordering your clothes. Hurry is always extravagant. Don't wait until the season is on you and then cry out that you have nothing to wear.

Charter in clothes! Take hears of grace—and these few hints. Start afresh and determine that your clothes shall give you a—good character.

For the Short Woman

THE short woman's petticoats should match her complexion—and so, when practical, should her shoes. She should wear a pretty toe-cap in preference to a plain vamp, as it will give the appearance of height to a short foot. Gloves for the thick, short hand are best with pronounced points to the fingers. Lengthwise braiding or trimming will give delight, as also do lengthwise tucks. A big, transparent collars decrease the size of the throat.

Timely Tips for Home Dressmakers

BRAID is so far almost invariably in black, being one of the materials which have come to stay. Kindly reader, no doubt with the wonderful improvements in this direction colored braids will appear, but black braid has somehow always a smartness quite its own.

Make Things by Hand

Hand sewing is in great demand, and the individuality which made things is appreciated this season as it has not been in many years.

Finish Collars

Marking cotton in that soft, cool shade

PRETTY THINGS TO WEAR

RHINESTONES in profusion trim many of the new dresses. They are put on generally in rows or form immense buckles.

Many of the handsomest gowns have a big full bow of ribbon falling from the shoulders. It makes a pretty finish for a frock for a young girl.

Smart boots for Autumn are those with tan kid uppers and black patent leather vamps.

Black evening gowns will be a great feature this Winter. Those being made are magnificent. Black tulle embroidered in silk, silk and tinsel with sequins or coral or jet bugle dust has a lovely effect.

It is now the vogue to wear a veil over and on the head, chiefly the color of the tresses—blonde, brune, black or gray. Even the woman whose hair by reason of frequent libations of mild have become an angry carrot will have nothing else than carrot velvet. A little bow of that material is made on each wire and posed at the side of the head near the face.

BREAD PUDDING.

ONE quart bread crumbs, one quart milk, raisins to suit, two eggs. Put in pudding dish a layer of bread crumbs, a few raisins, then more bread crumbs and so on until all bread crumbs are used up. Then beat eggs, add to one quart milk and a pinch of salt and pour carefully in dish. Do not stir and add no sugar as therein lies the secret of this fine pudding. Bake for an hour in a moderate oven.

PORTUGESE CABBAGE

ONE small cabbage, cut in quarters and boil in salted water for 20 minutes; drain well with a little water in a saucepan for cook for fifteen minutes. In the meanwhile slice thin some salt pork and a quantity of a pound of mixed lean and fat. Have this fried a nice brown, not burned. Then pour this over the simmering cabbage. Be sure to get all drippings from the frying pan. Let this cook slowly for an hour and one-half. Then have peeled some potatoes; put these on the top of the cabbage. They will steam fine. The whole recipe will not take but the hour and one-half, and if followed closely will make a whole dinner in itself.

HERE ARE "THE TWO MOST BEAUTIFUL CHILDREN IN ALL ENGLAND." HAS AMERICA THEIR EQUAL IN BEAUTY?

THESE two little girls are called "the most beautiful children in all England." This picture does not do them justice, for no picture ever can do justice to the beauty of a child.

They are the daughters of Mrs. Ellnor Glyn, the brilliant Englishwoman whose novels are widely read in this country, and who is now on a visit to the United States to gather material for future stories. Study these pictures of her little daughters—Juliet at the left and Margot at the right—and see how you think they compare with American children with Boston children.

Do you know any child whom you consider as pretty, or prettier than these little girls? How do you think the British type of beauty compares with the American ideal as presented in the BOSTON AMERICAN'S prettiest baby contest? Are these two girls prettier than any in Boston? What's your opinion?

THE TURN OF THE BALANCE

A Thrilling Romance of American Life---By Brand Whitlock

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

"YOUR HONOR, we offer as evidence a certified copy of an indictment returned by the Grand Jury at this present term, and the Government rests."

He looked in triumph at Marriott.

The prisoners were leaning eagerly over the table under which they and their shackled hands met understanding in that hour in the forces that were pitted against them. Dillon's long, unshaven face was suspended above the green felt, his eyes bright with excitement and deepest interest, sullied quickly from desperate to Marriott and then back again to Dalrymple. Mason's eyes went from one to the other of the lawyers, but his gaze was easier, not so swift, hardly as interested.

A slight smile lurked on the smooth face of Marriott, and the commissioner decided by his pleasure that this surely proved Mayhall's complicity, which he found it difficult to communicate to Dalrymple after shouting.

Mandell and Sowell were heavy expressionless men, and they sat with their hands crossed in nonchalance. In fact, they knew, and knew well, what had happened, and they were trying to learn from a slight change in Marriott's face whether it was ruin.

Dalrymple continued to look at Marriott in the pride he felt at having beaten him, in bewilderment and rage at the trick he had practiced a sharp trick on Marriott, he confessed.

This dislike showed now in Dalrymple's glance, as it had been expressed in the sharp, insolent voice in which he had put his questions during the hearing. He had spoken with an affected accent, and had objected to every question that Marriott asked on cross-examination. He had seemed to speak in the affected accent of college, where he had spent four years, and after which he had spent three other years at a law school, consequently, he knew little of that life from which he had been withdrawn for those seven years, knew nothing of its gentleness, or meaning, or purpose, and, of course, nothing of human nature.

The stern and forbidding aspect in which he tried to mask a countenance that might have been good-looking under other circumstances, was amusing to those who, like Dillon and Mason, knew older and wiser men.

A Figurehead

Dalrymple had no views or opinions or principles of his own; those he had, like his clothes and accent, had been given him by his parents or the teachers his parents had hired; he had accepted all the ideas and principles of his own class as if they were axioms.

It was a fine thing to be there in the United States Court in an official capacity, to be there and carry one back at him, and, as he supposed, carry him; that gave him pleasure, and something like pride, although it an especially fine thing to represent the Government. He used the word frequently, saying "the government feels," or "the government will look," or "the government understands," speaking, indeed, as if he were the Government himself.

The power behind him was tremendous; an area about which he had only the least knowledge, his opinions and his methods.

Against such a power, of course, Dillon and Mason, who were poor, shabby men, had no chance. Dalrymple, to be sure, had the training of a lawyer, was obliged to these men; his notion of how he was affecting their lives, their futures, perhaps their fortunes.

He was totally devoid of imagination and incapable of putting himself in the place of them or of any other men, yesterday possibly those who were dressed and spoke with similar affectation.

Not Human

He did not consider Dillon and Mason men, or human beings at all, but another kind of organism or animate life, expressed to him by the word "criminal."

What did have happened to them as important; the only things that were important, to him were, first, to be dressed in a correct fashion, and modestly, that is, in the manner of a gentleman, and secondly, to see to it that his sympathies and influences were always on the side of the rich, the well-dressed, the respectable and the strong. And to maintain a strict distinction between himself and the poor, disreputable and ill-clad, and, thirdly, to bear always, especially when in court or about the government building, an important and solemn demeanor.

He felt, indeed, that in becoming an Assistant United States District Attorney he had become something more than a mere man; that he had been given by the government a part of its dignity when it put on it and gilt seal, a paper on which his name and the words by which he was designated had been written, he had become something more than a mere human being.

The effect of this was revealed in the look with which he now regarded Marriott.

Marriott, however, did not look at Dalrymple; he wished Dalrymple to feel the contempt he had for him, and after a moment he arose and addressed the commissioner.

The commissioner straightened himself in his chair; his face was very long and very solemn. He did not listen to what Marriott was saying; having conferred with Dalrymple before the hearing and read a decision which Dalrymple had pointed out to him in a calf-bound report, he was now arranging in his mind the decision he intended to give presently.

Marriott, if he realized the hopelessness of his case, but he did not think it necessary to give in so readily. At least, without making a speech. He began to argue, but Wilkinson interrupted him and said:

"This whole question is fully discussed in the Yarborough case, where the court held that a removal proceeding on a felony can be presented in behalf of the defense."

Mr. Wilkinson announced his decision, saying that Marriott's witnesses could be heard at the proper time and place—that is, on the trial, where he said the rights of the defendants would be fully conserved. Feeling that his use of this word "conserved" was just and appropriate and had a legal sound, he repeated it several times, and proceeded by saying:

"The defendants will be remanded to the custody of the marshal for removal."

Railroaded to Jail

The marshal and his deputies tapped the prisoners on the shoulders. Just then there was a slight commotion; Gibbs had pushed by the bailiff and was coming forward. He came straight up to the men. The marshal put out a hand to press him back, but Marriott said:

"Oh, let him talk to them a minute. Good God——"

The marshal glared at Marriott, and then gave way.

"But he wants to be quick about it," he threatened.

Gibbs leaned over Mason's shoulder.

"Well, dear," he said.

"I'm kangaroosed, Dan," said Mason.

"It looks that way," said Gibbs.

"Dan, I want you to do something for me," said Mason, and he sent some folderol. You know you can get those clippings in good shape, then only cost a quarter," Gibbs looked hurt.

"Why, sir," he said, "I've known you for forty years, and that's the only mean thing you ever said to me, Dan," Mason said.

"I don't get sore, Dan," Mason said. "I know you would—only——"

But the bailiff had been short and marched the prisoners out of the courtroom. Outside in the street the curious van was waiting, the van that had been ordered before the hearing, to take the prisoners to the station.

Hints on Health and Beauty

By the Professor

SQUARE SHOULDERS

DEAR PROFESSOR:

I have the left shoulder lower than the right. Will you please kindly tell me how I can get both alike?

SWELL.

HANGING from the horizontal bar will help the left hand will develop the left shoulder, as also the following: Let the left arm hang limply in front; sweep it outward and upward, fully extending always; pass it across the front close to the face, and as you lower it toward the right side bend the body in the same direction until the hand reaches the knee or lower, if possible. It is the exercise in extending the shoulder muscles that counts.

TO WHITEN HANDS

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you please tell me of something which will whiten my hands. I do my own housework with the exception of the washing. I would like to have you tell me of something for washing eyes. Whenever I cry I cannot attend my work the next day on account of my eyes being so swollen.

A CONSTANT READER.

BUTTERMILK and lemon juice are both good whiteners of the hands, but on account of your hands being subjected to housework you need something more softening, which you will find in a mixture of lemon juice and glycerine, equal parts. Witch hazel is excellent for the eyes, but under the circumstances you mention I should say that the best remedy by far is to cry. It is probably the rubbing of the eyes instead of the mere shedding of tears that so affects your eyes. At any rate, bathe in witch hazel cloth, wet with witch hazel, diluted one-half with hot water, you will obtain great relief.

Woman and Her Watch

WATCHMAKERS say it's amazing women have timepieces that go at all, in view of the fact that about five women in a hundred remember to wind their watches at the proper time. The average woman looks on the winding of a watch either as a ceremony to be performed only on state occasions or as a pastime that will do well enough as a stop-gap for the moment, but must not be permitted to interfere with the serious things of life. The explanation probably is that she doesn't wear it every day.

Bows Made of Chamois

AMONG the novelties in chamois skin are little butterfly bows to be worn with the embroidered linen collars. Also little string ties one-half inch wide, which tie in a small bow.

Dorothy Dix Says Teach Your Girls to Be Good Wives

By Dorothy Dix

A YOUNG man who is about to plunge into matrimony, and who desires to be happy, though married, writes asking me how he can train his wife into being the ideal helpmeet that is every man's ideal.

To this I should like to respond, "Son, marry a girl who is already trained to be a good wife," but I fear that this advice would doom him to celibacy, for it is a sad fact that few mothers consider it worth their while to teach their daughters any of the arts and graces that fit them efficient for matrimony.

We have schools of acting, in which girls are trained to become Lady Macbeth and Floredora sextettes; schools of music, in which they are taught to become high prima donnas; schools of stenography and typewriting and bookkeeping, in which they are taught to become business women, but there are no schools in which they are taught the greatest profession of all—how to become a good wife.

Trusting to Luck

We chuck our girls into marriage as ignorant as a baby of all that it takes to make a happy, comfortable and prosperous home, and we trust to luck instead of teaching to give them inspiration to deal with the situation that requires the skill of a chef, the shrewd financing of a Wall street broker, and the diplomacy of an ambassador to the Court of the Mikado.

Now every man who marries a woman and spends the balance of his life working to support her has a right to expect a run for his money. He has a right to demand that she shall be a pleasant companion, a sensible administrator of his finances and a good housekeeper.

There is not one of those counts on which any woman of average intelligence and loving heart cannot make good, if she will, and a man is just as weak and foolish if he lets his wife default on her part of the marriage contract as he is if he lets his business partner throw all the work on him and absorb all the profits and perquisites of the firm, or if he lets his employee slight their jobs.

Nor need he be tyrannical and disagreeable about it. He need only use if little tact and firmness, and make his wife understand from the beginning of their honeymoon that he expects certain things of her, as a matter of course. Women always live up to their blue china, which makes life a comparatively easy matter to deal with them.

Brides Are in Love

Here and there, of course, a man has the ill luck to espouse a shrew or an idiot that is amenable neither to kindness nor logic, but for the most part brides are deeply in love with their husbands, honestly want to make them happy and to please them, and it is a man's own fault if he does not mould this plastic material to his own liking.

It is a man's own fault, for instance, if his wife is not a companion to him. To begin with he selected her and if he chose a doll whose head was stuffed with sawdust instead of brains, it was his own doing. If, however, he picked out a fairly intelligent woman, it is up to him to develop her along the line in which he is interested.

Nor is this hard to do. Every woman is flattered to death by a man talking to her as if she was his equal, and confiding his hopes and plans and ambitions to her.

There is not one woman in a million who would not gladly abandon reading Laura Jean Libbey and the Duchess for Darwin and Motherhood if her husband made her his companion in his scientific and philosophical studies, or who would fail to take a burning heart interest in the price of salt codfish or the brokerage line if her particular John cared to discuss his business with her.

Leave Wife Out

It is because men leave their wives so completely out of their real interest in life that so few women are companions to their husbands.

The only subject that the average couple have in common are their children and the monthly bills.

Hence the dullness of married life, and the preponderance of the domestic row, because either subject always affords sufficient provocation for a skirmish.

It is also true that it's a man's fault if his wife is extravagant and doesn't understand the value of money. Except in rare cases a girl never has any training before she is married. Everything she has had has been given to her, and she is absolutely ignorant of the purchasing power of a dollar.

The first money she ever handles is her husband's salary, and she has to learn by experience how to get the most on how to save, and why it is wise for a young couple to lay in somewhat rainy day, or to be ready to vantage of some opportunity that will lead to the main.

Women are nearly all good when they have the chance, and nothing short of stupidity in husband can fail to take advantage of this in reaching out on their own h

A Husband's Rights

As for a woman being a good house keeper, a man has simply the right to demand that of his wife, and the first time he finds one has been shut down to a meal that would be a menace to the stomach of an ostrich he ought, if he values his future health and happiness, to raise such a row about it that she will never dare do it again. In these days of cook books there is no excuse for any girl not learning the art of preparing food properly. a man is an idiot and a weakling if he permits a poor cook to keep a cook if she can't be persuaded or cajoled into doing it.

If she won't learn to keep house properly, if she persists in looking on her husband to make her want to render some return for all he does for her, and if she is too slothful and lazy to do her duty, the man is perfectly justified in sending her back home and using her parents for palming off a good brick on an unsuspecting party.

A little tact, a little firmness, a little begin with be exercised and if he chooses a doll whose head was stuffed with sawdust instead of brains. It was his own doing. If, however, he picked out a fairly intelligent woman, it is up to him to de-

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

A NATURAL RESULT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I met a young man at a party, and a few days later he called on me. I asked him to take me to the theatre, which he did, but afterward said he thought me a very nervy girl. I took this remark literally.

My sister, who is much younger than I, took him out on the veranda, parlor. I would like to know what I have done to offend him.

My father, at 9:45, told me I must ask my friend good night. I wished him good night, and he promised to call on the following Wednesday to take me to the theatre, which I had again asked him to do, but he failed to come, and wrote me a letter, saying he was called out of town and could not keep his promise. My mother says this should end the acquaintance. Will you please tell me who is to blame, my family or him, and whether or not if it was proper for my sister, who is a high school girl, to take him out on the veranda, parlor during his call, and oblige,

I. H.

I THINK, my dear, that you are the only one to blame for the loss of his friendship. You should not have asked him to take you to the theatre. Men like to give girls pleasure, especially when it only costs money. Quarter of ten was rather early, but it is much better to be too early than late, and your father was simply looking after your own interest.

You should remember to bring company when you have guests.

A VICTIM OF FALSEHOOD

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 17. Five there are a number of young people all about the same age, and although we all go together we have our favorites. I have been going with a boy for two or three years now, although I have been with him only about a week. I met a short walk only) and then just met them accidentally. Last week when my friend came to see me, as we had arranged, we went out. On our return I thought he acted cool. I asked him when he could come again as I generally did on leaving him, and he said he would telephone me. I received neither mail nor message from him. After waiting almost a week, meeting him with several of the other boys, I called him aside to find out what had been the cause of his silence. In answer, he said that Arthur had told him he was going with me and that was why I had not heard from him, as he did not want to interfere. I told him I had been out with Arthur but twice, and that was accidentally. I have not seen him since. Will you give your kind advice, as I love him very dearly?

AN ANXIOUS GARWOOD GIRL.

IT is too bad that you should suffer for no cause. If you denied emphatically having gone out with the other man more than once or twice, your friend should believe you. No doubt he is a little bit jealous and finds it hard to get over it. I think that if you act quite cool and treat him just as you have always done he will get over it in time.

A Remedy for Ants

IT is said that an effectual cure for th ants that are the bane of many a go housekeeper is to melt together in an earthenware vessel a quarter of a pound of sulphur and two ounces of potash. When cold pulverize and sprinkle in the haunts of the sluggard's example. If the ants are very numerous it will be best to have the housekeeper will during the somewhat cinky melting process.

QUINCY FOLK TO FIGHT FOR FINED PASTOR

Police Scored for Arrest of Edwin H. Hardy in Cleveland.

TRIP TO THE TENDERLOIN

QUINCY, Oct. 18.—The residents of this city are thoroughly aroused over the reported arrest and fining of Rev. Edwin N. Hardy in Cleveland and intend to fight the case. Mr. Hardy was a delegate to the Congregational Triennial Council and was making a study of life in Cleveland's tenderloin.

He is pastor of the Bethany Congregational Church here, having taken charge in 1895. He came from the Hollister Congregational Church, Hollister. For many years he was connected with the Phillips Church, South Boston. Mr. Hardy received his education at Amherst and prepared for the ministry at the Hartford Seminary. He has a wife and three children, N. Phillips, age fourteen; Miriam, age eight, and Christine, age four. He was married to Westacre to Miss Helen Severy in 1890.

His parishioners, as well as his fellow delegates, declare that Mr. Hardy is the victim of overzealousness on the part of the police. In speaking of the case Rev. H. ... said: "I have been studying social ... for years. Little opportunity was ... me in my home town, and being a ... to the conference here, I concluded ... Cleveland would be the best place ... me investigations.

"In an innocent of any intentional ... as a child. I was returning to my ... when a woman spoke to me. She ... ill and I was interested. I went ... her to talk and study the case. I ... immediately that the woman was partially intoxicated and left at once. I did ... give her money, but it was because of her ... claim that she was destitute.

Notable Medical Discovery

Of Special Value to Many Here in Boston.

The progress made in medicine during the last few years has been as a whole general rather than specific.

One of the most notable discoveries and one that undoubtedly appeals more than anything else to many people here in Boston is the combination of stomach remedies in the Mi-o-na treatment. This prescription has worked wonders, and there is now no excuse for anyone suffering with indigestion or weak stomach.

It acts specifically upon the muscles of the stomach and bowels, strengthening and stimulating them so that they readily take care of the food that is eaten. It also increases the flow of gastric juices, thus getting from the food the nourishment that is necessary for health and energy.

The symptoms of indigestion are numerous, such as distress after eating, flatulence, heartburn, sick headaches, dizziness and irritability. These are all dispelled by a few doses of Mi-o-na when the trouble is recent, but just as surely in long standing and chronic cases if the treatment is followed for a reasonable length of time.

Do not think because of the quick benefits derived from the use of Mi-o-na that it is merely a temporary agent. It is a remedy that cures by making over the weak stomach into a strong one.

Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere for 50 cents, and we positively guarantee to refund your money should you purchase a box and be dissatisfied with results. Write for free sample, addressing Booth's Mi-o-na, Box 977, Buffalo, N. Y.

HUB MOTORISTS BREAK RECORDS IN HARD TESTS

Henshaw in Electric Runabout and McNamara in Premier Startle the Auto World.

BY J. C. KERRISON.

The distinction of having been the first man to drive a stock electric runabout from city to city, namely Boston to Gloucester, and return on one charging has been captured by Charles S. Henshaw, and not only that but as yesterday likewise annexed the local mileage record for an electric runabout, the total mileage for the day, on one charging of his batteries, being ten and one-eighth miles.

In his round trip from Boston to Gloucester, the stock Columbus Stanhope runabout showed a total mileage of 67, the additional mileage having been made after his return, and without anything whatever being done to the machine.

Many have contended that the average mileage of an electric vehicle on one charge was not over fifty miles, and yet here was a plain, unvarnished exemplification of what the average person may do with such a car, for be it known Mr. Henshaw is by no means an expert with electrics, his strong suit being that of driving a gasoline car.

Judges Followed Car.

The performance, unlike many others, was made in public view, it being watched by a party consisting of Messrs. Louis J. Kaiser, J. B. Murphy, J. W. Bridle, Peter Thomsen and the writer, who followed the electric every inch of the way in the big Haynes carrying affairs in the event was exceptionally good, it being absolutely faultless, the only mishap being the rattling of a snow on one of the rear wheels at Phillips Beach. At this point the effect upon the motor or the batteries and was something that could be felt on any car at any time and anywhere.

The start was made from in front of the State House, and the run to Gloucester, a distance of thirty-four miles, made in slightly over three hours. The route, as is well known, is what might be termed one of a diversified roadway, macadam predominating, but with a few stretches of cobble stones, especially when the trip is taken through Charlestown and Chelsea as we did. Also there was more or less road under construction, while the hills encountered made it what might really be considered an admirable course on which to test the mileage abilities of any electric vehicle.

Went Over 100 Miles.

On the return the same course was followed to Broadway, Revere, where, instead of turning toward Chelsea, the boulevard was followed to Somerville, and thence the route lay through Cambridge to Harvard square, down Massachusetts avenue to Mr. Henshaw's establishment on Massachusetts avenue, where the odometer showed 74.7 miles for the round trip. The year was then performing so admirable that Mr. Henshaw determined to go for the mileage record, and next the odometer showed a total of 101.5 miles as drove the car along Boylston, Arlington, Beacon streets and Massachusetts avenue, when a halt was called the batteries were ... definitely stronger as to propel the car at an average of at least seven miles an hour. This pace, however, Mr. Henshaw considered as being too fast to satisfy one with the ability of the car, and so he concluded his work.

The car used was a stock runabout in every shape and manner, it being equipped exactly as it is when delivered to a customer, and its performance will do much toward creating a greater interest in the electric as a vehicle of pleasure, not alone to work, but for an average long run into the country.

With the high speed clutch and the bonnet sealed so that it was absolutely impossible to get at the mechanical parts without breaking the seal, Roy McNamara yesterday drove the Premier runabout from Boston to New York and return in 23h. 24m. elapsed time and 20h. 27m. actual running time. The performance was a most admirable one, one that is looked upon with considerable respect, for while sealed clutch and bonnet tests between here and New York have been more or less frequent, the round trip has never been made in such excellent time. The car used was a regular stock car, there having been no change whatever made for this trip.

It was 3.58 o'clock yesterday morning when, having affixed the seals to the car, Secretary Fortescue of the Bay State Automobile Association set Roy McNamara and his companion, George Preston, off on their journey to the Great White City. Nothing of import happened during the outward run, the car being received at the Motor Circle in that city at 7.01 by Mr. Chase Emerson. After filling up to be sure precise, at 3.34, Photographer Larzarnick gave the word for the return trip, which was started at 5.36 o'clock this morning. Secretary Fortescue being on hand to receive the car and inspect the seals, the latter he pronounced the same as those affixed by him just prior to the start. At the start in Boston, Henry L. Joynson, local manager of the Premier, watched the work with interest and then took a train for New York, where he remained the arrival of the car, returning to Boston in company to witness the finish in the several hours of this morning. He, like the motor men, had rather a strenuous day's work.

The car performed well throughout, McNamara experiencing no trouble whatever in ascending the steep grade with his high speed clutch in mesh. Even Spencer Hill, that great bugbear of motorists, possessed no terrors for him, the car taking the ascent in good shape.

The trip was certainly a trying one, and displayed in no uncertain manner the high qualities of the Premier car.

ENDS HER LIFE, BIBLE IN HAND

Clasping an open Bible in her right hand and with a revolver that her body be sold for dissecting purposes for $35, Mrs. Mildred Smith, about twenty years old and a member of a respectable Hebrew family living in the West End, killed herself in her lodgings at No. 6 Nonnet street, South End, by taking strychnine. Although a married woman, Mrs. Smith had been living with a Chinaman named John Mikado or John Wong for the past two weeks and it is believed that the knowledge that he was to leave her drove her to take her own life. Two weeks ago Mrs. Smith and the ...

MUNYON'S

Free Distribution Begins This Morning

10,000 Bottles of His Guaranteed Rheumatism Cure to Be Given Away at The Boston American

EVERYBODY INVITED TO GET A FREE BOTTLE

His Honest Efforts to Prove the Efficacy of His Remedy Should Meet With Public Support

Distribution From 8 in the Morning Until 7 at Night

To-day Prof. Munyon began his distributing of 10,000 vials of his Rheumatism Remedy from The Boston American Office, requesting the free acceptance of the gift to investigate and publish the results in each case, as reported to them—either good or bad. In this way Prof. Munyon proposes to prove the efficacy of his Rheumatism Remedy before asking the public to spend one cent. Never before in the history of medicine has there been a physician or scientist who have dared to risk their reputation in an actual test of the remedies in the public. Such unbounded faith in the virtue of their medicine, as shown by the Munyon company, at once gives the public confidence. No doubt, thousands who have given up all hope of being relieved will be tempted to try this remedy.

During the past ten years Prof. Munyon has given away free millions of bottles of his cures from leading druggists and dealers all over the country. What a contrast between this honest method of proving the virtue of his remedies and others, who promise so much, but always ask the patients for money in advance.

If you are afflicted with any disease ask your druggist for a Munyon cure.

Rheumatism Cure.

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to cure rheumatism in any part of the body. Acute or muscular rheumatism can be cured in from one to five days. Chronic cases, shooting pains, sciatica, lumbago and all rheumatic pains in the back, hips and loins. It seldom fails to give relief after one or two doses, and almost thoroughly cures before one bottle has been used.

3X Rheumatic Cure

Where our regular 25c. Rheumatism Cure fails we guarantee the stronger and more powerful 3X Rheumatism Cure, which has been prepared expressly for chronic and obstinate cases. This remedy should be used in every instance where the joints are stiff or swollen, or have become chalky. Also for sciatica, lumbago, pains in the back, sciatic pains, lumbago, swollen joints, muscular rheumatism and inflammation. It is put up in a large bottle and sells for $1.00.

To cure every chronic rheumatic to throw away all medicines, all liniments, plasters, and give MUNYON'S 3X RHEUMATISM CURE a trial. No matter what your doctor may say, no matter what you may forget may say, no matter what your friends may say, no matter how prejudiced you may be against all advertised remedies, go at once to your druggist and get a bottle of the 3X RHEUMATISM CURE. He will get it for you if he has none in stock. There are 100 doses in a bottle, and as one lady says, "Every bottle is worth more than a diamond of the same size." A few doses will take away all aches and pains, and a cure generally follows before one bottle is used.

Remember, this remedy contains no salicylic acid, no opium, cocaine, morphine or other harmful drugs. It is put up under the guarantee of the Pure Food and Drug Act.—MUNYON.

3X Kidney Cure.

Most people suffer more or less with their kidneys. Why not take a bottle of Munyon's Kidney Cure and avert the torture of diabetes and Bright's disease? Cures pains in the back, loins or groins, from kidney disease, dropsy of the feet and limbs, frequent desire to pass water, dark-colored and turpid urine, sediment in the urine and diabetes. Price 25c. cure. For chronic and serious cases we recommend the 3X Kidney Cure, 100 doses, price $1.

Stomach and Dyspepsia Cure.

Munyon's Stomach and Dyspepsia Cure cures all forms of indigestion and stomach troubles such as rising of food, distress after eating, shortness of breath and all affections of the heart caused by indigestion, wind on the stomach, bad taste, offensive breath, loss of appetite, faintness or weakness of stomach, coated tongue, heartburn, shooting pains in the stomach, constipation, dizziness, faintness and lack of energy. Price 25 cents. For chronic cases use the 3X Dyspepsia Cure, 100 doses, price $1.

Munyon's Nerve Cure cures all the symptoms of nervous exhaustion, such as depressed spirits, failure of memory, restless or sleepless nights, pains in the back and dizziness. It cures general debility, stimulates and strengthens the nerves and tones up the whole system. Price 25 cents. For chronic cases use the 3X Nerve Cure, 100 doses, price $1.

Liver Cure.

Munyon's Liver Cure corrects headache, biliousness, jaundice, constipation and all liver disorders. Price 25 cents. For chronic cases use the 3X Liver Cure, 100 doses, price $1.

Munyon's Cold Cure prevents pneumonia and breaks up a cold in a few hours. Price 25 cents. For chronic cases use the 3X Cold and Grippe Cure, 100 doses, price $1.

Munyon's Female Remedies are a boon to all women. Price 25 cents.

Munyon's Headache Cure stops headache in three minutes. Price 25 cents.

Munyon's Pile Ointment cures all forms of piles. Price 25 cents.

Munyon's Asthma Herbs, guaranteed to relieve asthma in three minutes and cure in a few days. Price $1.

Munyon's Blood Cure eradicates all impurities from the blood. Price 25 cents. Scrofula cases use the 3X Blood Cure, 100 doses, price $1.

Munyon's Vitaliser immediately restores lost powers to weak and debilitated men. Price $1.

BEHEADED BY IRON BUCKET

Decapitated and shorn of his right arm by the sharp edge of a huge iron bucket, was the ghastly fate that befell Peter Mullen in the pit of the coal yeards of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad on Fourth street, South Boston.

With other workmen Mullen was loading an endless chain of buckets that ran on complicated sprocket wheels from the pit to the chutes, whence coal is filled and on the cars. In stooping to pick up a lantern Mullen lost his balance and fell over into the mechanism of the chain.

Mullen was thirty-five and lived at 184 Fourth street with his wife and three children.

AGED WOMAN KILLED BY PRINCE'S AUTO

HAMBURG, Oct. 18.—Prince von Bebelow, the imperial chancellor, was in a fatal automobile accident here yesterday. The Prince has been spending a few days at Kleindottebek since his return from Norderney. He started for Hamburg to-day and hired an auto cab to take him to the residence of the burgomaster. While on the way an aged woman tried to cross the road in front of the machine, but became confused and was run down and killed before the cab could be stopped.

BAR WIVES AT NIGHT SCHOOLS

FALL RIVER, Oct. 18.—The members of the school committee do not seem to be in sympathy with one of the Roosevelt-like theories, judging from their latest action in deciding to give no more places as night school teachers to married women.

For many years it has been the practice to engage many of the evening teachers without reference to whether they had been guilty of matrimony or not, and all this is to be changed, and any woman who has had the good fortune to have hitched on to a husband can stay at home with him, prepare his supper and put slippers and take her trick at the rocking cradle, instead of leaving her own child at home to do it while she goes out to earn pin money by giving instruction to other people's children at from $4 to $12 per week.

It pays to be particular about yarn quality, and particular women use the Fleisher Yarns. Experience has taught them that they can rely upon Fleisher quality. To insure uniformity, only the best wools are used and every process is supervised by experts. The Fleisher Yarns are even, lofty, elastic and are dyed in all the wanted shades.

The Fleisher Yarns stand the test of wear and wash.

CRIMSON TO PRACTICE AT BALTIMORE TO-DAY

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 18.—Ready to show the middies a few things in football the Harvard gridiron squad arrived this morning.

In the party were Appollonio, Burr, Butt, Cutting, Dick, Dorsey, Gilbert, Gilmore, Grant, Gray, Hunt, Hunnon, Ireland, Kennard, Macdonald, Newhall, Nourse, Parker M. Peirce, W. Peirce, Rand, Robinson, Starr, Waterbury, Bird, Brock, and Lockwood; coaches, Crane and Osborne; trainer, Donovan; managers, Fincher, Eggleston and Appleton, and W. H. MacKinnon of the Harvard Athletic Association.

The Cambridge boys had breakfast at the Hotel Rennert and most of them took a jaunt to get limbered up. This afternoon they will put in a short practice at the Country Club.

The visitors will go to Annapolis tomorrow morning to take lunch at the navy mess. The game will be called at 2:30, after which the Harvard men will return to Annapolis. The evening is to be spent at the theatre. After spending Sunday in Baltimore the team will arrive in Boston on the Federal express, leaving Baltimore at 6:35.

MIDDIES ARE FIT FOR HARD GAME TO-MORROW

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 18.—All the Middy kickers are in good shape for Saturday's game with Harvard. The practice was marked by the return of nearly all of the hospital squad to the game, and the coaches succeeded in putting so much life into the work that everything was encouraged, and it is freely said that the middies are in good shape to put up a hard game.

The navy contingent was particularly cheered by the return of Captain Douglas, and he appeared to be in fine trim, and had left-guard Ewing him little trouble. Dagne and Barg, end and half-back respectively, were allowed a little work this afternoon, as were Clay and R. E. Jones, who have been out of the game for a few days. The navy may have the services of Mercer, the big guard of last season's team, and Leighton, sub-tackle, by Saturday. Mercer has a bad knee, but is getting into condition for several weeks, though not allowed in the line-up.

Seats for Harvard Alumni.

Leighton did not expect to play this year, but was induced to come out a few days ago and is rapidly getting into shape. He may play a part of the Harvard game. The naval academy authorities have been asked to reserve seats for about 200 or 250 Harvard alumni from Washington, Baltimore and other cities, and the officials who will avail themselves of their first opportunity of seeing their team play at Annapolis.

Their request will be granted and a commodious stand reserved for them. The crimson team will be thoroughly encouraged by the well-known cheers of their coach, Lieutenant Byron A. Long, U. S. N., an end at Harvard, and Clark.

YALE ELEVEN LEAVES TO-DAY FOR NEW YORK

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 18.—Yale kickers will leave for New York to-day, remaining at the Murray Hill Hotel till tomorrow morning, when they will go to West Point for their annual game with Cadet Daly's team. A special preparation for the West Point game seems signal practice; was omitted in Yale's preparation for the team for the West Point match was announced as follows by Captain Bigelow: left end, Howard Jones; left tackle, Pulford; left guard, Bigelow; centre, Mooney; right guard, Goebel; right tackle, Captain Hogan; right end, Rowley; quarter-back, Ted Jones; left half-back, Wylie; right half-back, Murphy; full-back, Coy.

Officials for the game, which is the most important in Eastern football, and the season opened, were chosen as follows: Referee, C. Langdon Fortune, Trinity College; umpire, W. H. Whiting, Cornell; linesman, A. Morice, University of Pennsylvania. Paige, who turned his ankle Monday, was out and will be able to line up at left tackle to-morrow. Bomar has been handled lightly since his head was cut last week, but he was in to-day's signal play, and will be given a try-out to-morrow.

The game with the Army will probably decide whether Bomar or Fred Murphy wins the honor of beginning the Harvard and Princeton games at right half-back. Bomar was on the second eleven last year, is faster and a better dodger than Murphy, a runner than Murphy, but is also a clever drop kicker, and since the beginning of the season, there has been a scarcity of players able to drop field goals. Murphy is the better defensive player, and handles forward passes better. He is a basketball guard, and is therefore acquainted with the passing game. He is a nephew of Mike Murphy and was a member of the freshman eleven last year. While will be chosen for left half-back and Coy full-back.

DARTMOUTH TEAM GOES TO PORTLAND

HANOVER, Oct. 18.—The Dartmouth football boys left for Portland to-day, where they will meet Maine to-morrow. The team went from Portland to Bethel, to Fabyans, where they will take advantage of the fine home will and have signal practice on the ball field.

The team left Portland at 8:30 p. m., where they will be quartered at the New Falmouth Hotel. The players will go on the trip: Captain Glaze, Brusse, Rutledge, Tobin, Lange, R. Barker, Kennedy, Schildmiller, Ingersoll, Stuart Marks, Douglas, Kelley, Rich, L. Bennett Robbins, Hawley, Dillingham, Sexton, De Lisle, Greenwood, Coombes, Dr. O'Connor, Dr. Bowler and Joe Gilman, Managers Lane and Clark.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 18.—Hughiey Jennings, his little whistle and wee-ahs in vaudeville is a possibility, according to the enterprising manager of the Empire Theatre here. He has made the w'aitiant leader of the Tigers a flattering offer at his own figures to fill in the burlesque bill at the Empire the week of October 20, with a salary that will save the league the Tigers from slab to first place in the American League. Jennings bears the reputation of being a finest talker, and would make a distinct hit. He is considering the offer.

WALCOTT FIRED OUT OF RING

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 18.—Dr. G. L. Sackett, of Thomaston, a former amateur boxer, doesn't believe in fake bouts. He derived three battle between Joe Walcott and Billy Payne and ordained the men several times to fight and not to fake.

In the sixth, when they continued to fib in the efforts, the irate Walcott clean through the ropes into the crowd.

When order had been restored and both men were again in the ring Walcott felled Payne with a right to the jaw. With an obvious effort to gain time Payne remained on one knee until nine had been counted. Just as he arose the referee called "Ten, you're out." Payne's protest was vigorous but in vain.

The criminals in the case disappointing Eddie Curley of Boston and Young Rogers of Lynn were sent out in the final after two feeble rounds.

Fighting Eddie Harrigan of Portland failed to show up and Fred Sidney gave and exhibition with Billy Hope of Revere, Mass.

MIKE REGAN MAY BECOME A MAGNATE

M. J. Regan, the royal rooter, known to all the baseball fans, the country over, has decided that he must concentrate his energies on baseball and with that end in view he is negotiating for a part ownership in the Providence Club of the Eastern League.

Mike, as he is known to his host of friends, spent considerable leisure time last Sunday in Providence, and was present at the famous opening day festivities. He likes Providence and says he is anxious to become financially interested in the Grays that he may root all the harder for their success.

It is safe to think that the royal rooter will enliven things a whole lot in Providence baseball world if he succeeds in getting what he is after.

HUB HORSEMEN BACK FROM WESTERN RACES

A few of the Hub delegation that went to Lexington, Ky., race meeting have returned home, and whenever one is spotted by the horsemen who had not the pleasure of making the trip, he is obliged to tarry and tell all about what happened.

"In the first place the weather down there was something awful to relate," was the way one began his narrative. "It was so cold that Winter overcoats were needed; in fact, last Saturday it rained, snowed and hailed at spells. This made it bad for the horses as well as for the men.

"So far as our three-year-old futurity starters went it cannot miss and the whole way should have been in the stable instead of out racing.

Aquin Lost Value.

"Aquin was a sick colt. He was coughing very bad. By racing him I think that his value decreased several thousands of dollars. All true of his having worked a mile in 2:09, and in every way he had a pretty good reputation through his Syracuse winning race. D. W. Tilden could have sold him for a big price, but his getting disqualified in the Futurity makes a great difference, as now days excuses don't go with breeding buyers.

"Blue Hill was a wreck. I really believe that he lost a hundred pounds in weight. Tiber went easy with him in the opening heat, but in the next trip he rushed him over to the half, and then the fast sickness cold that stays, as he shut up like a jackknife, and was back of the flag in the last heat on a trot.

Rigged to Lose Race.

"The Leading Lady had been rigged differently by Benyon from the way Proctor had her in her earlier races. He had her checked quite a little higher, with the result that she drove on one rein. I saw the alterations that I made, and that she didn't take to them, so while she was a winning horse for the two-year-old Futurity, I thought her chances that small or winning that I bought pools against her.

"Kentucky Todd—lots of speed was a mystery. He simply could not get out of his own way. Silsbee liked him all right when he warmed up for the race. I heard afterwards that the night of the event the first symptoms of distemper made its appearance. He had a high fever, also.

"Titer's victory with Chime Bells was about the only redeeming feature that the Boston visitors had to crow about, and they got a good slice of the pool tickets on her. She was looking fine, going strong and in excellent fleah, and the record to get a new record better than 2:20 before through racing. I never liked the shape of her hood, though, but if some racing is touching her to stick to a trot, just the same, beat or no beat.

Allowed to Drop Heats.

"It amused me to see the judges permit Peter V. Johnson to drive his trotter Iron Gray may be named. He held back in the race for the first couple of heats, then finished second in the third, and by this time his party having gotten their money safely invested, he let right odds on her, he handily won the three following heats, there actually being no contest to them. The winning of Tregaddie was of no benefit to 'Long Shot' Cox, and the very few close to him, possibly not more of the Bostonites had the tip, so it could not be said that Cox's Futurity three-year-old entrance very much over Cox winning. Odtoo was a top-heavy favorite and went down in the list of starters, so that 'Long Shot' didn't have to invest heavily on Tregaddie to take off a big pot in the closing.

"Taken as a whole and the racing was a fair fixed exposition, Simeon Girl captured the Transylvania too easily, trotting the first heat in 2:06, but she would have gone a lot faster.

"Peerless Prince, presiding over the two-year-old futurity was lustrously exciting, but all of the other events were quite ordinary."

READVILLE RACE TRACK'S FUTURE

"Yes, four or five of the directors of the New England Breeders' Association held an informal meeting at Lexington, Ky., to talk over future plans relating to the Readville race track," said Director Ralph B. Williams, when asked about the buying of the property by the directors, as stated in the BOSTON AMERICAN. He had just returned to Boston from Lexington and was present at the conference.

"Understand, the meeting at Lexington was an informal affair, and we brought up several matters, any of many not be adopted later, as the buying of the stock held by different parties entered through our New England, the holding of a big annual fair at Readville, etc.

"It was finally decided to hold a regular directors' meeting at the Quincy House the full board to pass on any of the suggested projects on October 25, at 11 o'clock."

JOHN GARRELS' RECORD NOT ACCEPTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—John Garrels' high hurdle record of 15 1-5 seconds, made in the Intercollegiate last Spring was thrown out at a meeting of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

Though the athlete straight time was 15 1-5 seconds, the board ruling was that Garrels' mark had been added by a strong wind and refused to allow the record.

The records accepted were:

Mile run—1m. 34 4-5, by Hankins, University of Pennsylvania.

Two-mile run—9m. 43 4-5, by Taylor of University of Pennsylvania.

Three-mile run—14m. 34 4-5, by Rowe of University of Michigan.

Shot put—47ft. 3½ in., by Moffit of University of Pennsylvania.

Shot put—47ft. 3½ in., by Krueger of Swarthmore.

Pole vault—11 ft. 11¾ in., by Dray of Yale.

The place of holding the next annual track and field meet was left open until the next regular meeting, which will be on January 11, 1908.

EASY FOR SHUTE.

The fourth game of the New England amateur billiard championship was played at the Imperial billiard room between Worcester and Shute. Shute won, 200 to 140.

WHITE MADE LEWIS WORK

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—Harry Lewis faced Cub Wiltie in the ring at the Broadway A. C., a 25-foot boat near the limit of six rounds. White was outpointed by his man, but gave Lewis a very good battle. Lewis was by far the more clever, but White was very aggressive and landed numerous blows on Harry in the mixups.

FOOTBALL TEAM INVADES SOUTH

For the first time in football history a team representing one of the leading colleges of the North will invade the South Nov. 2, and Nov. 9.

Michigan is to go to Nashville, Tenn., to play the strong eleven of the Vanderbilt University. Nov. 2, and Nov. 9 will find the rooters, who are accustomed to seeing the football clash all the small way to some of the field, are looking forward to a hard-fought battle with Vogt's men.

DOCTOR STOPS BOUT.

LANCASTER, Penn., Oct. 18.—A physician stopped the bout between Jack Hall and Eddy Carter in the third round, terming it a cut over Hall's left eye. It was a slam bang affair from the start.

Notes of the Harness Horses

Solly Wolfson has sold his pacing gelding Charleroy 2:18¼, by Bingen 2:06¾, dam by Jay Bird, to Fred Spedway, to Dr. LeBrun of New Bedford, where he intends to use it all competitive in the driving club matinees.

Charleroy has a fine record, and with Johnny Ash as his regular driver will make a good matinee horse.

Chairman Joseph E. Sweetman of the race committee of the Dartmouth Driving Club has been busy with his every little mare Governor Prescott, and has sold her to Dr. Frank H. Franklin of Springfield, Mass. Dr. Franklin has a farm in Lexington, Mass. Her legion of admirers would like to see her back here, but, at least, with B. S. Dillon.

The report that John W. Linehan had sold his trotter J. W. L., was wrong. He is still his property and will be raced in the balance of the season.

While in Kentucky A. H. Parker was offered inducements to send the stallion Bingen, 2.06¾, there for a couple of years.

Wert Parkesh has bought Hilgar (2), 2:35¼, son of the great sire of the name, Hilgar 2:04¾. He may be seen in the matinees at Charles River speedway.

It is now President John W. Linehan of the Colonial Square Democratic Club of Dorchester.

ENGLISH HIGH LANDS GLAZE

Ralph Glaze, the Pilgrims' slicker, and formerly of the Dartmouth football eleven, has taken charge of the English High kickers.

The team put his new charges through a very hard scrimmage in preparation for the Dorchester High games at Dorchester tomorrow afternoon. This will be English's opening league game of the season, and Coach Matthews means to do everything possible to have his team win.

TEMPUS FUGIT BADLY BEATEN

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 18.—Tempus Fugit got the worst of the start in the first heat and was badly beaten.

The starter let the field go with Tempus Fugit in the rear, and in a break he passed under the wire. Beles Geers could get him back on his feet, but never wore a quarter of a mile in the best, and finished a very slow last in 2:14¼.

Finally, Margaret O. easily took the next three heats. After the race the talk of best Coders could do was to trot the field and take second money.

TAYLOR AFTER ROCHESTER

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 18.—It is reported here that the Boston American League Club will secure the last Eastern League franchise and put Fred Lake in charge, using the team as a farming place for extra players.

SCHOOL FOOTBALL TO-DAY.

Volkmann vs. Brookline High at Allston
Wellesley High vs. Quincy High at Wellesley
Abington High vs. Powder Point at Duxbury.

Notes of the Boxers.

Joe Humphreys and his "One Best Bet" have signed contracts with Sam Nanking under which Sam Langford and Jack Blackburn, bet the colored heavyweight will be matched to fight Jim Flynn and that should the manager of the latter pug would not follow instructions and fight when matches were made for him.

Bob Deely, the manager of the new Industrial Boxing Club, has matched Jack Britton and Billy Donovan of Rochester for a six-round go in Philadelphia.

Jimmy Gardner is willing to take on the tough est men in two rounds. Through the BOSTON AMERICAN he has sent an offer to Sam Francisco to tackle Billy Kendall, who disposed of Joe Gans in 45 rounds at 9 o'clock, which would enable Kendall to go into the ring close to the 12th round with him a middleweight. At the same time Jimmy sent an offer to Los Angeles to see George Memsic, the lightweight pet champion, at 133 pounds at 9 o'clock, and the battle would be over in the second after Gardner's arrival on the Pacific coast.

Young Kenny Solomon, who substituted for Tommy Kelly against Young Ross at Lynn after the latter had been taken ill, made a good showing. He landed Quarry here and there and Quarry came on here with very little training, and after a couple of rounds Solomon had his own with Ross. The latter had the greater amount of cleverness but the former had the punch and at the end there was little to choose between them.

Charley Harvey of New York, who is pilloting the affairs of the lately arrived Jack Johnson, and Billy Summers, Owen Moran and Pat O'Keefe—is liable to have a bunch of Lenox Englishmen on his hands next Spring. It is said that Johnson will fill the demands for the appearance of his opponents, for a sum of thirty thousand dollars, and that he has the privilege of selecting the opponent himself. Moran is the favorite of the Lenox Athletic Club, but Johnson is said to have stated that he would not be able to win a big decision, over Al Kaufman, Tommy Burns and Jim Jeffries, but that he could defeat a preliminary boxer, gave Moran a hard battle for fourteen rounds at a recent boxing show. Both performances, in a measure, are Summers and Moran have been and are likely to be matched for a considerable unknown quantity—and one to be the team to beat. Harvey has also signed Joe Thomas to box for his title, and then comes Joe Gans, willing to fight or compete. Ready to take on anybody, regardless of weight, from Jeffries down to the lightest boxer of the day. Sunday Harvey had been in a kick-about with Jack Johnson, one of whom will consider a match with Blackburn, Gans or Langford, or Klondike Haynes, or Al Kaufman, Tommy Burns and Jeffries himself. Klondike Haynes created a lot of comment. He wants to meet Kaufman, who has been training for a match with Gans and Joe O'Brien. How is that for a man who can scale 135 pounds at ringside?

Jimmy Coles is hot on the trail of Walter Little for any man of that class. Coles has defeated every fighter of any note in Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Nebraska in a fight. In particular, he wants to get Little.

Notes of the Diamond

Sentiment looks good to the Pittsburg critics and fans and they are preparing to say so to the Nealon, when they get—or don't get—or gets.

There is talk in Pittsburg to the effect that Ed. Abbaticchio will be among those missing from the Pirate team next season. He has not been an unqualified success during the season just closed.

Archer, who caught for Detroit in the last game of the world's series and another that was won by his pace, pegged to home, was formerly a semi-Pirate and was given a chance or two or nineteen.

Jack Hoyle, the former National and American League catcher and first baseman, wants to try his own new wrist pitch and is out for a berth in a minor league franchise. Doyle managed the Montgomery team this year.

Secretary John E. Irwin of the National Commission, has gone to Wisconsin on a fishing and hunting and fishing trip with President Ban Johnson of the American League, Manager Griffith, Jake Stahl and one or two others.

The National Commission on Monday reinstated Outfielder Dahlinger, who jumped the Toledo team in 1902. He must pay $500 for the privilege of playing with the Phillies next season, and give back his extra $750 in Philadelphia money to the fine.

Second Baseman Algerman of the Brooklyns, who broke his leg at Boston week before last, will be out of the game for the season, and next time the world's series is on he will be unable to break a leg within a month, barring being the other.

Sammy Strang has probably played his last game with the Giants. He is one of several holders for the Birmingham franchise in the Southern League. Sammy is a southern boy and wants to end his baseball days among his people. His father has stated him to take a trip of contemplation and if Strang gets the job of managing the Birmingham team, he will buy a share of stock big enough to give him a controlling interest.

In addition to $15,000 handed to the players by the Detroit Baseball Club President Yawey gave his personal check for $1,000 to Manager Jennings, making the latter's share $2,500. Coach Schaefer received $1,000 and Trainer Ryan $500. Secretary Irwin presented to him by his players.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

ROXBURY STORAGE SALESROOMS WHERE PIANOS ARE SACRIFICED

Fighting the Piano Trust

The name "Piano Trust" sounds big, looks powerful and frightens a good many small piano dealers. They wouldn't dare to cut the prices on a "Piano Trust" instrument. We have been cutting their prices for months—cutting—slashing—and actually slaughtering their prices, and now we are shipping the Big Piano Trust pianos at prices that will astonish you. We confess that when we started in to make these cuts we were making no money, but selling almost any one else in the land, and selling almost any make of high-grade piano, new or second-hand, at prices that make the big Piano Trust wince.

THIS, a Sacrifice tag is clapped on to it, be it high grade, low grade or middle grade, and it is sold in the first man or woman who wants it for the price marked on the tag—not a cent more or less. The selling prices made on the Roxbury Storage pianos are so far below anything ever done elsewhere to [illegible] that when you see them and hear them without let the accounts out then and there you can see easily by regard to your pocketbook that these sales must answer. Someone's loss is your gain.

A Piano Sale here is always a sacrifice, always a bargain sale, always a mark-down sale. The very nature of the business, as the publish knows, is one of sacrifice. The piano business is not conducted like the business of the regular Piano store down town, where they are expected to make a profit on each piano—always getting their profit DIRECTLY out of the sale of pianos. We don't let any one load around on the floor of the Roxbury Storage Salesrooms—it comes in DUE TIME.

Why the Turtle Is in No Hurry

He Has Little to Do, and Three Hundred Years in Which to Do It

The great sea turtle that lives to an age of two or three hundred years is noted for the leisurely manner in which he goes through life, and is often pointed out by foolish philosophers as a model for short-lived human beings.

The fact that the turtle is never in a hurry, that he eliminates all excitement from his life, and that he views tranquilly any disturbance that drives his fellow sea-creatures into a panic, is supposed to be highly complimentary to his intelligence.

Incidentally it is regarded as a reflection on man, who hurries through his meals, his work and his pleasures, and who is usually not at all happy unless he is tremendously excited about something.

But before we lose ourselves in admiration of the turtle, and decry our own shortcomings, we should remember that the great armor-plated animal has a VERY LONG LIFE before him, and has very little to LEARN OR ACCOMPLISH in his superabundance of years.

His thick shell enables him to get along without worrying about attacks from other animals or studying the art of self-defence.

He swims by INSTINCT, and when he has observed enough of life to know that it is pleasant to swim on the surface of the sea when the sun is shining, that it is advisable to pull head and flippers into his shell when sharks are about, and that a sharp eye and a quick movement of the neck are necessary to catch fish, he has acquired all the information he needs.

Three hundred, or even two hundred, years is ample for this purpose; so the turtle can well afford to dawdle along through the sea, and to be as lazy as he desires to be.

But in proportion to what a MAN can accomplish, his years are very short.

His schooling, if it is a GOOD schooling, requires all the time he can spare between the ages of six and twenty-one.

His EDUCATION he accumulates through life, and death always interferes before its completion.

Special knowledge, which is the trade or profession by which the man earns his living, must be gathered up quickly—seldom more than four years being devoted to it.

And if he hopes to know what other men have done, what they have written, and how through the centuries the world has been fashioned till it has reached its present form, he must occasionally be in a hurry—he must frequently become EXCITED in his hunt for knowledge.

The calm, leisurely man is often admired and often successful, but usually he gets his reputation for calmness after he has pretty well mastered his business and can afford to take things easily.

The man you see directing a great enterprise without excitement or mistakes has undoubtedly been very much excited in his youth and made many mistakes, learning each time NOT TO MAKE THAT PARTICULAR MISTAKE AGAIN.

In any great political movement, or in any great struggle, excitement is necessary to success.

Until somebody gets excited about wrongdoing, and gets others excited about it, the wrongdoing will continue.

The American colonists put up with King George's oppression for many years before the Boston Tea Party and a few other incidents of the same kind spread excitement throughout the colonies and the Revolutionary War followed.

Individual men who have made great successes have usually found that excitement was a natural accompaniment of their enthusiasm.

Columbus lacked the money to fit out his expedition to a new world for years, and not until he got the Castilian Queen excited about the enterprise and arranged to finance it was he able to set out across the unknown western sea.

The young man to-day who is criticised for being in a hurry can always quote the Scriptural injunction, "Go to the ant, thou sluggard"—the ant being the most excitable and hurried of all the insects and, judging by results, the most successful.

There are plenty of turtles among mankind, and only a few of them are found in the ranks of the rich.

It is the human turtle who has little time or money to spend, but squanders the former recklessly and the latter whenever he can get it, who is the most common.

When these idling turtles think of time, it seems limitless. But while there were millions of years to make the world what it is to-day, to bring human intelligence out of simian instinct and civilization out of savagery, there are only forty, fifty or at best eighty years to make a human life. While it is in the making BOTH HURRY AND EXCITEMENT are at times as necessary as light and air are necessary to life.

A Good Way to Pass Next Sunday Evening

By Prof. Frank Parsons

EVERY young man desires to increase his possessions, add to his property and his power to influence and control the world and his fellow-men.

Young women feel much the same way. They want books, music, dresses, houses and automobiles, and they also like to include among their assets a good-looking, well-to-do, properly-tamed and thoroughly domesticated young man.

Of all possessions, aside from friendship and love, knowledge is the most important, not only as a direct source of happiness in itself, but as a most potent means of securing money, property, position, and all the material comforts and social consideration they can command, and even as a vital part of the foundation for the best esteem and affection of our fellow-men and the devotion of our friends.

To get a liberal education by going through college takes three or four years, and the expenditure of a considerable amount of money.

Most young men and women who are earning their own living cannot go to college.

To meet this situation by offering the elements of a liberal education in the evening hours and at little or no cost to the student is the object of the Breadwinners' Institute.

It was organized two years ago at the Civic Service House, No. 112 Salem street, and has been very successful. An earnest body of students for the coming term have devoted themselves to economics, history, philosophy, government, the art of expression and public speaking, advanced English and literature, biology, geology and other natural sciences, life principles and practical psychology.

Professors and instructors have come from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Emerson College and Harvard, to meet these young people and guide them in their efforts to grasp the results of science and, most important, the best thought of the world. The pupils are carefully trained in methods so that by judicious reading, study and research they may continue their education in a most effective way throughout the remainder of their lives.

The third year of the Institute opens next Sunday evening, October 20. The director of the school will lecture at 8 o'clock on "The Rolling Thought in Life," discussing the dominant ideas and motives that control men and women now, and pointing out what ideas and motives young men and women should seek to make the controlling factors in their lives in order to attain success in business or industry and in the higher life for which industry is the basis.

Registration for the various classes is now going on. It is hoped that the workers of Boston and vicinity will take even a deeper interest in the Institute this year than in the past. Come next Sunday evening and if you like what you hear and see and feel, register for one or more of the courses.

Mother Wanted an Aut

By Winifred Bla

YESTERDAY I spent the a noon and remained for din with a friend of mine who two fine boys, a good husb a dear little girl, a pleasant home, g social position, and good health.

She is not happy.

She has an electric runabout she wants a real automobile—one will hold five persons besides the ch four. She talked about the autom a good deal in the afternoon. I h just what make she wanted and size and how much it ought to cos why she really ought to have it.

At dinner we had the automobil every course. One of the boys looke his father and laughed indulgently the automobile talk began. The ot sat in sulky silence for a while and th burst out in vehement argument on mother's side.

"Other people has them," he s
"And why shouldn't they? What if did cost money? What was money if not to spend? And you might as be dead and buried as to be out of th anyway. When he was a man he going to have automobiles, you could bet, the best that were going, and m than one of them, too.

"He was sick and tired of want things and never getting them," etc., e

The mother drew a shocked breath as soon as the father of the family re collect himself he sent the boy storm from the table, and we began to tal other things.

Later in the evening we were spe of a boy of good family who had confessed to a plot to blackmail four his father's friends, to get money to a trip to Europe.

My friend, the woman with the t sons, was horrified.

"What a degenerate he must be,"
said. "How I pity his poor mother.
the father of that woman's two sons and looked at her with an expressio such mingled pity and reproach th could not bear to see him.

I wonder if my friend had the fai idea what that look meant?

When that boy of hers grows u cheats or steals to get the money f the best automobile going, and the that go with them, I wonder if his moth will ever dream that she is partly t blame for his wretched guilt.

I wonder if we mothers have nothing to do with this strange spirit of desperate determination to get money, get it somehow, anyhow, but get it, that our boys are beginning to show?

I should hate to think so, but—

Our remedies oft in ourselves do lie
Which we ascribe to Heaven.

Dinkelspiel's News From the Canebrake

By George V. Hobart

Home, Lately.

MEIN LIEBER LOOEY: Ve haf receifed your letter from Baton Rouge, und ve vas glat to heard it dot your health continuations to accumulate.

Ve notice vot you set in der letter aboud tooking a leetle trip ould in der Looeziteannie canebrakes in der search of game, yust like a certain party.

Such vould be a goot idea, Looey, und vile dare vas muddings orlchinal aboud it, still it is a nice vay to go ould und vork yourself to death vile tooking a leedle rest.

In der meantimes, Looey, mit my own special vireless systems I haf been in communications mit der Looeziennie canebrakes, und I should be pleased to show you der result, vich is in der form of a diary kept py vun of der disappearing bears of dat vicinity.

Dis is it, Looey:

Deep in der Canebrake. To-day.

Dear Diary—I vunder vot is caneing ofer me? I feel such a nervousness venefer I peep through der tangled unterbrush vich rises between us und der vicked world outside. Der paw I write mit trembles in der balance. Ould on der trail dis morning I met up mit a rabbit, und ve holded a short conversationing. He vas very nervous, also, I vas hungry at der time, so I added his nervousness to mine. But I dond feel better. Perhaps der rabbit gave me der indigestionings. Vot, oh! vot is in der air?

Der catmounts all met in convention assembled yesterday und passed resolutions condemning der Lead Trust und der Gunpowder Trust. Vun old cat got up und set dot he hat a bunch dot someding bitter vas going to happen because last night he dreamed he hat a tooth pulled.

All our part of der canebrake is getting eggsetited. Ve seem to be receiving vireless messages from der coroner, most of dem sent collect.

Monday (Vash Day).

My vife, Mrs. Cordelia M. Bear, is so succumbed mit nervous palpitationings dot she cannot put ould der week's vash. She vas growling. I vas growling, der leedle vuns vas growling, und der whole household is in an uproar. A leedle vile ago I heard voices in der dumps. I vent out to see der cause, but I only found a silence. Vot does it all mean? To-day I saw a buzzard in der air. Der buzzard yelled at me: "Ha, ha! Soon dare vill be someding doing!" someding doing!" Den he looked at me mit his eyes full mit appetite und flew avay. Growler, Chumlor, our youngest son, is still unter der bed shooking mit a terror. Surely dare is someddings in der air besides der buzzards.

Efery vare in der canebrake der tindi animals vas building cyclone cellars, und a oil octogenarium bear, py der name of Uncle Noah, has been vorking for two veeks on a ark.

Ve all feel dot something terrible is coming off, but nobody has der heart to suspect der truth.

Ach, Himmel! yoe is me!

Home, Chewsday.

It is all off. I saw it to-day. Vill I efer forget der sight? Now I understant vy I vas so nervous. My leedle boy, Growler Chunior, vas mit me. "Look, papa!" he set to me, "dare is it!" I looked. I saw a slouch hat pulled down ofer der most open face efer vitnessed.

I saw such a smile as ven der vorld is getting retty to bough at der daybreak. I saw in der eyes vinking behind a pair of show-vindows such a look of determination vich made my flesh full mit goose feelings, und I trembled from pit to dome like a leaf in our dining room table.

At fairst I t'ought I vould faint, but I changed my mind und lost my consciences.

At dot moment der face interrupted a gun aimed at nor for der fairst time mit dot determined slouch hat behind der trigger!

For a moment somebody seemed to throw a blanket ofer der sun, und could see nuddings anyvare except a dot broad, vide smile at der apex of der gun.

A t'ousand t'oughts rushed through my brainery in der t'inkling of a eye vinker. I remembered der time I vent vood I hat spoke to Mrs. Bear only de morning because der squirrel steak va burned at breakfast. I remembered how cruel I vas to der lost rattlesnak dot tried to swallow Hilbert J. Bear, our eldest son, und vat I did to de young cannibal dot tried to kidnap Isabella Bear, our baby daughter.

Den vile my sins vas passing in review before me der gun interrupted dot awful slouch hat pulled der trigger, und der next moment I fang laughed heartfully, fill mit der cheerliving, because der man nefer tou me.

But I felt so sorry for a leedle round half a mile avay in der slouch hat I vent at der tree und manyder leedle fellow.

Den I moved t'oughtfully in de rection of der slouch hat, unslouch hat began to move t'oughtfully in der same direction.

I began to move faster, und slouch hatter occupied der same p

Der last I saw of him he vas headfirstly t'rough der canebrake und dictating his sensations to his secretary. I vent home und locked all der doors.

For a veek Mrs. Bear und I vas afraid to go outside efer a visit of cause ve knew dot slouch hat vas back in der jungle mit reinforcings, but all he got vas oil Uncle Noah Bear, vich vas too stubborn to stop vorking on his ark und go in der cyclone cellar.

Dis I have heard, Looey, und vile I ain't much of an artist, still I can draw my own conclusionings.

Dare has been so much in der newspapers from der udder point of view dot I vas glat to be able to gif der bear's side of der story. Yours mit luff,
